City Firemen Join Carbide Crew in Training Sessions

A combined practice session with the fire fighting forces of the city and those of the Union Carbide Chemicals Co. culminated a series of co-operative training sessions for about 40 members of the two departments at the plant recently.

The Torrance Fire Department under the direction of Fire Chief J. J. Benner and the chemical plant's firemen under the direction of Superintendent J. T. McClure participated in a simulated practice problem to end the training session.

"This problem gave both groups an opportunity to witness the company's built-in fire protection equipment in action," McClure said.

The equipment makes it possible to cover any area of the plant with a blanket of water in a matter of seconds.

The demonstration also pointed out how well the up-to-date equipment of the Torrance Fire Department could supplement this built-in fire fighting facility, McClure said.

The city's aerial ladder and monitor equipment were used during the final demonstration—adding their fire-fighting power to the deluge system of the plant.

The co-operation of Chief Benner and men of the city forces was praised by company officials after the training program.
