Ann Landers

Justify for a lot of things. Do you dig it? Does it send you? Is it any worse than the music you enjoyed when you were a teenager?

Rock and roll is NOT music. It does NOT send me. In fact, if it were the only mode of transportation, I wouldn't go. You cats are not real gone. You are just semi-departed.

Dear Ann: I've been married three years and just found out that my husband has been driving indies home from work. I knew he did this before we were married, but I was under the impression he had stopped this practice.

I see nothing wrong with giving fellow employees (either sex) a ride if they live on the way. If you want to make real trouble for yourself, just keep chewing away at your husband and he'll develop an interest in some sugar-cookie because you put the idea in his head.

There's a vast difference between 'stopping things before they get started' and starting something that was not about to begin.

Confidentially: Unstrung Mother. String yourself up and tell your 16-year-old son that driving the family car is a PRIVILEGE and not a RIGHT.
