

Linguist Needed to Call Roll in ECC English Class

Four continents and two islands are represented during the daily roll call of a single English class on the campus of El Camino College.

Something of a United Nations atmosphere prevails in the class of 33, where 6 students represent areas outside the United States and one is an unofficial ambassador-at-large. Another, concentrating on the home front, has served for the past year as a teacher to the Indians in Arizona. The number of Texans was not tabulated. SUCH A large concentration of students representing areas outside the continental United States is unusual. The total enrollment of foreign students constitutes less than one per cent of the total enrollment of El Camino. The six are Virelio Del Rio from Columbia, Min. Gay

Quan and Min Sang Quan from Hong Kong, Miss Mary Lamkin from the British Isles, Miss Elizabeth Patterson from the Philippine Islands and Antonio Almorita from Hawaii. All were born or have become naturalized citizens of the United States. "Ambassador-at-large" is Robert Mobley, a resident of Hermosa Beach, whose paddleboard has figuratively taken him to Hawaii, Mexico, Australia, and South America. Mobley's hobby and number one recreational pursuit has also become a means of self-support in the quest of an education. He is working his way through college by making and selling paddleboards. OCEAN PRESSURE At four miles down, ocean pressure amounts to four and one-half tons per square inch, according to accurate tests.

SIGNING FOR THE FAIR... Here pretty Pat Eckstrom, of Pomona, an entrant from Mt. San Antonio College in the contest to select a queen and 10 princesses for Los Angeles County Fair, tucks up "Thumper," the familiar mascot used to announce the dates of the huge harvest festival in Pomona, Sept. 12-22. Wondering what it's all about in "Babe," prize-winning Hereford bull entered in the fair's premiere livestock show by the Corona Hereford Ranch.
