Top Hair Style New 'Chimicurl'

You won't feel right without it; you'll look wonderful with it as a complement to your new fall clothes. That's the verdict about your new fall and winter hair fashion, the "CHIMICURL," according to the Official Hair Fashion Committee of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Assn., the hair fashion authority of the beauty profession.

The new "CHIMICURL" gives the same slim, graceful look to your coiffure that the fall clothes will give to your figure, say the hair style authorities who add the following description of the flattering new hair style trend.

Hair is neatly salon tasseled with emphasis on height and heartbreaker bang, often seen in a profusion of curls. Height on the top of the head is highly important, but the height will be coaxing into deep, soft curls for feminine flattery.

Hair will be short, and brushed up at the back of the head to meet the fullness of the top, or the backs will have a gentle complexity of softness over the crown tapering into a fitted nape line.

The entire coiffure will be more controlled than in the spring and summer seasons, and there will be no more of the "eggbeater" look. At the temples, hair will be worn close to the head, again to close to the illusion of height needed for the many variations of the relaxed silhouettes of the chemise, trapeze and empire lines.

Bangs will take the form of tendrils of hair on the forehead, and are used extensively for variations of the "CHIMICURL." For more extreme fashion, a chaste band of straight hair follows the bang at the hairline, adding a note of sleek contrast reminiscent of a Macassar "headache band." Ears will show partially, and, yes, will be rouged for a beguiling candlelight effect.

Custom professional permanent waving will be extremely important to give your hair the necessary substance and body, as well as for your easy care of the high pouffed elegance of the style. See your professional hairdresser for advice regarding what's best for your hair.

Hair color for fall and winter will take many cues from the rich and radiant fabric colors. Some of the vibrant fall colors which will go to your head range from rich red browns, through the goldenrod yellows to the pure wheat colors, all the way to ice blue for stunning combinations with the crushed amethyst tones in fabrics.

Make-up, fall 1958, also takes its cue from fall's color chart and offers a complete palette for fall fashions. One fascinating new combination will be yellow eye shadow to be worn with real orange lipstick, perfect with the brown hued fabrics. This exciting new combination is particularly effective for brown eyes and the bright nut colored coiffures.

Lips will range from blue pink and the rosy blues to a beautiful violet shade, especially appealing with the high fashion amethyst colors in hair fashions and fabrics. Coral lipstick will look intriguing with the autumn greens, and particularly when teamed up with a new olive green eye shadow, and golden hued hair fashions. Consult your cosmetologist for your proper selection.

All in all, the "CHIMICURL" coiffures, crowning fall's complete fashion picture, promise the most fascinatingly chic and radiant season of many years.

"You Need A Doctor!"

Dear Ann: If I wrote the story of my life no magazine would buy it. They'd say such things don't happen. Please stick with me and tell me what to do.

I married a handsome, devoted man 14 years ago. I knew we would have no children because of a childhood disease which left him sterile. He didn't try to deceive me.

A few months ago he told me a friend of his was in a jam. He asked me to trust him and ask no questions. I agreed. He moved an attractive 24-year-old girl into our home. She appeared to be about six months' pregnant. I stuck to my bargain and asked no questions—until I caught them together at 4 a.m. I moved out the next day.

We've lived apart seven weeks. He pays my rent and gives me a generous allowance. But I want HIM, not support money. In the meantime I miss my lovely home. What shall I do?—E.D.W.

You need a doctor (for your head) if you permit another woman to shove you out of your home.

Have a meeting with your husband at once. Give him 24 hours to get the girl out of the house. This "handsome and devoted" mate of 14 years has plenty of explaining to do. Hear him out. In the meantime, see a doctor. YOU may be sterile. Whatever his explanation, please let us know. It must be a beast.

Dear Ann: Our 18-year-old daughter was engaged to marry a boy 19. A few days before the wedding she suddenly said, "Don't mail them Mother. It's all off." She gave me no reason and refuses to discuss it.

The church is reserved, the photographer engaged and all plans are set. I've suspected trouble between them for several months. The boy says he can't find a job and our daughter has criticized him for staying in bed until 2 p.m. He says, "Why get up, there's nothing doing."

She's ambitious and has worked after school since age 15. At present she has a fine position. What is the correct thing to do under the circumstances? What do we tell people? This is very embarrassing.—W.P.F.

Cancel everything. And thank your lucky stars your daughter had the courage to change her mind. You are your teens no explanation. This is a personal matter.

It's clear the girl decided not to support the boy. Now that she's regained consciousness, help her to face the future as it never happened.

Burleson, 1333 Cordary, Torrance. Mr. and Mrs. Curt Strom of Gardena are parents of the bridegroom.

Mr. Burleson escorted his daughter to the altar. She wore a formal gown of white Chantilly lace detailed with a fitted bodice, round neckline and long sleeves. The full skirt, which had paniers of ruffles down the front, fell into a chapel train. The fingertip veil was secured by a pearl tiara and the bridal bouquet was of white orchids and white roses.

Girls' Council and Tri-Y along with other campus activities.

Mr. Strom attended Leavenworth High and is now in construction work here.

Miss Sharon Koontz was the maid of honor. She wore a yellow sheath dress with a yellow organza collar and a bow at back. Her flowers were yellow carnations.
