Ann Landers The first year of our marriage we saw the in-laws every day. They complained bitterly because I refused to move in with them week ends. After eight years we still see them several times a week, though not daily. My husband must stop off at his father's place of business every morning before he goes to his own shop. A month ago we got the bad news that his father has cancer and we know it's only a matter of time. His mother is a wreck and has made it plain in a million little ways that she will never live alone. Their daughter lives in a climate which my mother-in-law says is bad for her asthma, so I'm beginning to get the drift. My husband keeps saying "Don't worry, Mamma, we'll look after you." If this means what I THINK it means, it spells the end of marriage. Any advice? —Hazel Dwindling

WHO'S REALLY BEHIND PROP. 18?

NOT Leaders of Major Religious Faiths... Protestant, Jewish, Catholic... NOT Leaders of California Republican or Democratic Parties... NOT Leaders of Our Community's Business and Civic Life...

Promoters Claim Prop. 18 will create "VOLUNTARY UNIONISM" HERE ARE THE FACTS: Far from creating "voluntary unionism," Proposition 18 would work in precisely the opposite direction. It would mean government intervention in the present free, voluntary system of collective bargaining between employers and employees.

Promoters Claim Prop. 18 will "CLEAN-UP CORRUPTION" HERE ARE THE FACTS: Proposition 18 actually would breed and encourage — not eliminate — corruption in labor-management relations. It creates not one single provision for helping with corruption. Whenever honest, responsible working agreements between employers and employees are destroyed — as they would be by Proposition 18 — it is the greedy, unscrupulous elements in management and labor — (and only these elements) — who benefit.

"Right-to-Work" Schemes Rejected Time and Again By Voters Among the powerful special-interest groups backing Proposition 18 are the so-called "labor unions" who spearhead every effort to get employer against employee, to set class against class — the same groups who opposed social security, paid vacations, minimum wage laws, and other laws to protect employees. They have backed repeated efforts to get over "right-to-work" schemes in California. The last time it appeared on the ballot, the people defeated it by more than half a million votes. And 29 other states have rejected or rejected such laws!

"RIGHT-TO-WORK" SCHEMES RESULT IN LOWER WAGES, REDUCED LIVING STANDARDS The average per capita income for all states with "right-to-work" laws is far below the California average. $75.22 below! Yet, the cost-of-living in these unfortunate states is within 2% of California's!

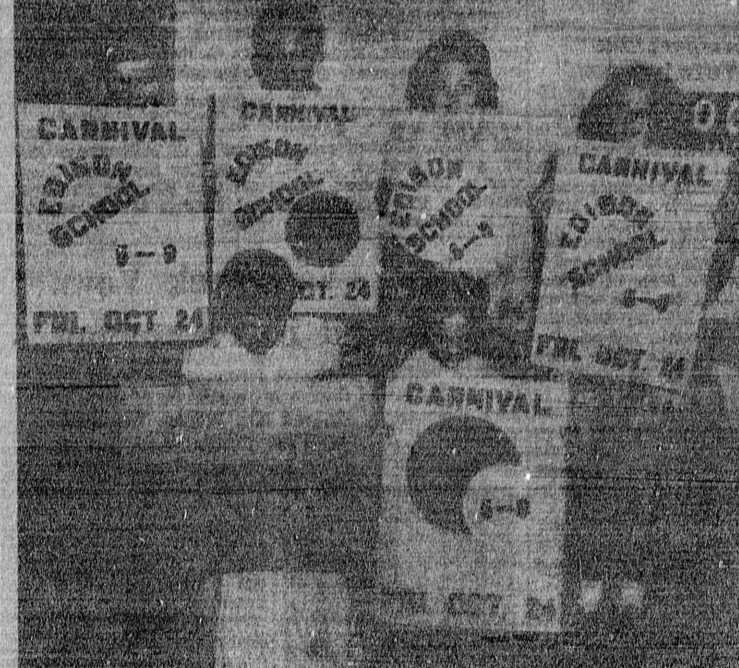

What Has Happened in "Right-to-Work" States Could Happen in California! Lower wages, reduced living standards, increased violence and labor-management disputes. That's the story in "right-to-work" states. That's why every enlightened employer, every responsible leader and servant in the community fears Proposition 18. They fear that the responsible, well-meaning people behind this scheme may succeed in instituting and carrying the public law mandating the destruction legislation — thereby setting away the very industrial peace and harmony that have placed California the highest per capita income in the nation.
