

READY FOR SPOONS . . . Legion Commander J. Ross Gately (center) checks his watch and says it's about time for the witches and goblins to make their annual visit. The Legion will be ready to welcome them Friday night at their hall, 1109 Border Ave., where Mel Coster's musicians will provide dance music. To show that he's in the right spirit, Gately says he'll give away his watch during the evening—also the television set shown in the lower left corner. Mike Virvilo (left) and Ed Vochals agree that spoons will be treated formally.

Proposition 3 Gets Support Of Assemblyman

Assemblyman Vince Thomas today urged voter approval of Proposition 3, which will provide $200,000,000 in bonds for the construction of state buildings.

The proposition would help finance $500,000,000 state building construction program of which $300,000,000 would be paid from current revenues.

Of this total, $214,927 would be spent at the campuses of the University of California and $183,553,000 at the state colleges.

"It is fundamental that we recognize the tremendous and continuing population growth of California," said Thomas.

"Our state colleges and universities are being flooded with students seeking higher education. If we do not provide the physical facilities, these institutions will be required to raise sharply their entrance requirements and keep many qualified students from getting a college education."

Thomas said that the money is not to provide luxury but to make possible the minimum facilities to enable these institutions to operate in the face of sharply increasing demands brought about by a rapid and continuing growth in the state's population.

He said the expenditure of the funds will be subject to legislative review.
