Chapel Will Win, Poll Predicts

According to a statewide poll recently completed by Hal Dunleavy & Associates, public opinion researchers of San Francisco, Assemblyman Charles Edward Chapel of the 49th district will be re-elected to the California Legislature next Tuesday, receiving 57 per cent of the ballots cast.

Formerly known as Western Research Institute, Hal Dunleavy & Assoc. was founded in 1949 and underwent the name change last April. Working in the 11 Western states, the economic and political research institutes specializes in political polls, voter conduct studies, land use and population studies, and economic and opinion research.

Convention Set For Blind Group

Delegates and members of the 38 clubs affiliated with the California Council for the Blind will hold a semi-annual convention Friday and Saturday in the Alexander Hotel, Fifth and Spring Streets, Los Angeles. The two-day program of informative and organizational activities will begin at 9 a.m.

Among the speakers at the banquet will be Congressman Cecil R. King, author of a bill aimed at liberalization of the blind aid programs throughout the nation, according to Alvin C. Meyer, consultant of the Division for the Blind, who added that 300 members and friends of the council are expected to attend the affair Friday.

The Art Corner

Small paintings, sketches, prints, craft items, sculpture, artwork of all sizes, shapes and price range, too, are available as unusual gift items for the coming holiday season, at the various art exhibits scheduled for the coming month.

Awareness of differences in style, use of color, choice of subject matter, skill in use of various materials by the artist: these are some of the things that can be taken into consideration when choice of artwork as a gift is difficult. However, suitability for the person for whom the gift is intended is the most important aspect. The wide variety of artwork to be exhibited will range from the traditional to more contemporary expression and will allow anyone to find something that would "send" young cousin Joe, or "charm" Aunt Tillie.

WITH ALL THIS art activity in our area, however, there is no one main art center, museum, art area, gallery row, or whatever you want to call it. There are very few art galleries, and these are all widely scattered.

Most exhibitions take place in our local libraries, which while they are fine, cannot take the place of an art center or museum. The artists instead of being able to concentrate on their artwork, also have to become experts in business management, public relations, marketing, exhibition set-ups, programming, all the things that a museum or art center director does very capably. Our South Bay-Torrance area needs year-round, high-level professional art exhibits that the busy art associations cannot provide.

TORRANCE IS getting a taste of what it is like to have a community arts center. The Old City Hall is bustling in one corner with all sorts of craft classes for children and adults. A very popular Saturday morning children's art class continues session after session. The first showing of the County Museum art film was very crowded, making two showings necessary for the November program. Activities of this sort should be encouraged by our community as a whole by active participation and support.

the big reason Capt. Rochefort is an American Saver

All through an adventurous 30-year career in the Navy, Capt. J. J. Rochefort, USN (retired), saved for his retirement. Today, still full of vigor for the years ahead, he feels nothing is more important to his financial security than the Strength he finds at AMERICAN SAVINGS.

Now living in Manhattan Beach after having served in three wars, Capt. Rochefort contributes leadership to the South Bay Area as Civil Disaster Coordinator and Kiwanis Club president. He enjoys the security he looked forward to for 30 years, knowing his savings at AMERICAN are protected by direct reserves...plus insurance.

During his colorful Navy career, he observed that "If you can't save money as an ensign, you can't save it as an admiral." He always put part of his earnings into savings and loan accounts...where he knew it would be available when he needed it—and his was one of the first accounts at the AMERICAN office in Manhattan Beach.

Savings backed by Strength—plus a high rate of interest—are rewarding not only for Capt. Rochefort but for all of AMERICAN SAVINGS' 63,000 accountholders who realize there's real strength in assets of $100 million and reserves of almost $15 million.

Ratio of Reserves to Savings
Federal requirement—5%
National average—9%
American Savings—14%

AMERICAN SAVINGS pays interest every three months, with money invested by the 10th of any month earning interest from the 1st. Save conveniently—and regularly—either by mail or in person.
