

School Board to Study Educational Television

Local educators are studying possible use of educational television in Torrance schools, but still aren't sold on it, according to a report to the Board of Education last week. Although TV teaching has many possibilities, there are some drawbacks, according to Assistant Superintendent Albert Posner. These include:

1. Torrance schools have much good audio-visual equipment now, including films, filmstrips, records, pictures, and models. In many ways, use of these is better than TV.
2. Teachers would be limited and forced to follow the schedule required by the TV series instruction and other activities would have to be made to fit the TV schedules.
3. Programs filmed at the direction of local teachers would be better. The best system might be to obtain video equipment to show them in this way they could be shown when and if needed, and could be re-run.
4. Cost of installing and maintaining TV equipment would require either more money or cutbacks in other parts of the educational program.

DYM Mailing Commercial Tag Renewals

The first million-and-a-quarter vehicle registration renewal notices for 1959 are in the mail this week addressed to owners of commercial vehicles and trailers of all types. The Department of Motor Vehicles announced today.

Students See Science Show

"Adventures in Science," General Electric's latest traveling show, was seen by 1000 students at Stephen M. White Junior High School last week. The program was introduced by Elmer W. Grimes, science department chairman, sponsor of the show.

Sounds of a rocket shoot and an orbiting satellite opened the program which featured a series of fascinating demonstrations. Included were fluorescent tubes which were ignited without wires, imploding soap bubbles, exploding sawdust, a rocket launching, and sound traveling on a beam of light. Solar energy was used to power a small radio.

The theme of the show emphasized the opportunity available to today's youth to contribute their talents to the nation's progress. Urging the students to give some serious thought to their future careers, the show stressed the importance of taking advantage of educational opportunities and making the most of individual abilities and ambitions.

"Adventures in Science" was presented by Lewis E. Fetter and Thomas E. Roberts from General Electric, Schenectady, New York. By the end of the school year, these men will have presented more than five hundred shows to a quarter of a million young people in the Western States.

ANY PERSON who applies on or after Dec. 1, 1958, for transfer of ownership of a vehicle registered in California, is required by law to apply at the same time for 1959 registration, and to pay the full year's fees when reporting the change. The Department advises such transferors to watch the dates on their transfer documents carefully, as penalties for delinquent transfer reporting become effective 40 days after the former owner signs off the pink slip.
