Great Builders Home Series Stresses Gas

All the advantages included in scientifically engineered gas heating systems — economy, convenience and comfort — are among the construction ingredients in Great Builders Series homes that are answering the critical tastes of the Southland's home buying public.

According to Carl W. Shupp, division manager for the Southern California Gas Co. here, gas heating equipment developed in recent years has boosted the over-all use of gas for space heating to a total of over 99 per cent of the new homes being built in the Southland.

In addition, Shupp explained, the units offer low cost installation, as well as low maintenance and fuel expenses, adequate sizing and design for comfort, and completely automatic controls for ease of operation.

Modern gas heating units on the market today range from wall heaters and floor furnaces, and gravity warm air systems, to the currently popular forced air furnace and the perimeter and radiant methods that are meeting even greater "design and use" needs of the building industry.

As an added advantage, Shupp pointed out, Great Builders Series members are finding that today's gas heating equipment does not become obsolete, and can be built in and concealed in pre-planned spaces. Also, ducts, vents, and convectors by design do not use up living space and can largely be concealed by decoration and furnishing.

Officials to Break Ground for New Temple Menorah on Feb. 21

"Ground breaking and consecration ceremonies of the new Temple Menorah building will take place on Sunday, Feb. 21, at 2 p.m. at the site of the property on Sepulveda Blvd. near Prospect Ave.," announced George Lewison, president of the congregation.

Temple Menorah which serves the Jewish persons living in Redondo Beach, Torrance, Hermosa Beach, Manhattan Beach, Rolling Hills, and Palos Verdes began in 1946 when a small group of people gathered in Hermosa Beach in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Grancell for the purpose of organizing a center which would fulfill the needs for spiritual and social activities for adults of the Jewish faith and which would also teach Judaism to the children.

Some 15 families were involved in these beginnings of the Temple. Officers were elected, and in 1947 the group was affiliated with the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, the parent body of Reform Jewish congregations in the United States.

ISAAC GRANCELL and his wife purchased the old Odd Fellows Hall at 112 North Catalina Ave. in Redondo Beach and after it was remodeled it became known as the "South Bay Jewish Community Center and Temple Menorah." As the activities of the organization increased a few more families joined until the organization late in 1947 had approximately 50 families.

By this time the women had formed a Sisterhood which affiliated with the National Federation of Temple Sisterhoods, an official arm of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations. Under the guidance of the Sisterhood a Religious School was organized and became a part of the Los Angeles Bureau of Jewish Education which helped draft the curriculum and arranged for instructors and a trained principal to direct the school academically.

TWO YOUTH groups were formed for the teen-agers of the congregation. One, called the "Temple Menorah Juniors" limited its members to young people 12 to 15 years of age. The other, called "Menorah Federation of Temple Youth" was directed for teen-agers 15 to 18 years of age. Both these groups were affiliated with the Union of American Hebrew Congregations' National Youth Organization entitled National Federation of Temple Youth.

In 1959 the Men's Club came into existence as another arm of the organization. It is affiliated with the National Federation of Temple Brotherhoods.

ABOUT THREE years ago Temple Menorah engaged the services of Rabbi Henri E. Front. The Rabbi, a graduate of the Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion, the oldest and largest seminary in the world for training of Rabbis, had just been released from the United States Navy Corps of Chaplains in which he had served as a Chaplain with the Marines. The coming of the Rabbi inspired increased growth and activities in all phases of congregational life.

The Temple now numbers over 200 member families with approximately 225 children attending Religious School and Hebrew classes.

The Temple Menorah Choir founded in January 1958 was formed for the purpose of bringing to the congregation the finest in Jewish Liturgical music. Harry Newman was selected as Cantorial Soloist and assists in Sabbath and Holy Day services. His wife, Fay, a talented singer and organist, trains and directs the choir which has made up almost entirely of members of the Temple.
