Agents Oppose Assigned Risk Insurance Plan

Members of the San Pedro-Wilmington Insurance Assn. have gone on record as opposing the flat surcharge on all automobile insurance policies under the "Assigned Risk Plan," according to Fred Singer, president of the local independent insurance men. He also emphasized that insurance rates are set by companies, and not by insurance agents. For that reason, he said, it is best to deal with independent insurance agents who represent several companies, and are not tied to any one company.

The independent insurance men take the stand that persons having spotless driving records, but are in the Assigned Risk Plan through no fault of their own, should not be surcharged simply because they are in the Plan.

"WE DO NOT believe," said Singer, "that there should be arbitrary financial penalties against insureds who have found their way to the Assigned Risk Plan simply because they are not considered as individuals, but have been rejected on a class basis.

"One suggestion," he said, "would be that such surcharges as are necessary on Assigned Risk Plan business be confined to those applicants who, by reason of their traffic violation conviction records and by their accident records, are in fact substandard risks."

SINGER concluded, "There are two ways Americans can buy insurance. They are (1) through independent insurance agents, or (2) directly from an insurance company. The first way — buying insurance through an independent insurance agent, is the time-tested, established way. Two out of three Americans insure their cars, and three out of four Americans insure their homes, through independent insurance agents. An even higher percentage insure their businesses through independent insurance agents. You run many chances when you buy insurance the second way — direct from a company without the services of an independent insurance agent."
