Time isn't for sale— but we can give you a little extra

A speaker at a recent medical convention stated that the trouble with most modern housewives is simply that they are "pooped." He said the average homemaker often works 14 hours a day; has more responsibilities than presidents of large corporations; makes more complex decisions than general managers and actually puts out more physical energy than men in so-called "hard-labor" occupations. (Tell that one to your husband).

If all this is true then your biggest problem in shopping is time and tension. And there is where Shoppers comes in. At most Shoppers Markets you get one stop shopping.

Take, for example, our beautiful San Pedro store. Next door is a spanking new Bank of America; across the street you'll find a beauty salon, restaurant, cleaners, drug store, shoe shop. In the market we have a fabulous liquor department and a wonderful Brookdale Ice Cream bar; a snack bar and savory Bar-B-Que'd chickens.

In other words, when daily needs are accessible to you just steps apart you can save a great deal of time not to mention frazzled nerves from tired muscles and too much driving and parking.

Make sense? We think one-stop Shoppers Shopping makes a lot of sense. You'll find one-stop Shoppers Shopping at our stores in Santa Monica, Inglewood, Norwalk, Carson, Westchester and Torrance.

See you next week.
