scared stiff to be in a car with her. She has had two minor accidents and I've been in the car both times. She also hit a dog, which almost broke my heart. (She doesn't consider this an accident.)

We only live six blocks from school and I would rather walk but she insists on driving me. I actually get sick to my stomach when she is at the wheel. I can't insult my own mother by refusing to ride with her. What can I do? —SCARED STIFF

Dear Stiff: Tell your mother exactly how you feel. You don't state your age but I suggest you learn to drive at the earliest legal moment.

Confidential to WALKING ON AIR: Get down to terra firma, Buster, and find out why a woman 27 years old has already made three trips to the divorce court. I strongly recommend that you put all thoughts of marriage out of your mind for the present, at least. Go with her for another six months and maybe you will learn why she is three chumps ahead of you.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teenagers if you write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20 cents and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.
