... Ann Landers

Had you waited until you got home she might have forgotten that she behaved badly. My only criticism is that you didn't let her have it sooner.

Dear Ann Landers: A friend who works near my place of employment rides to and from work with me almost every day. Sometimes he invites a friend or two to ride along. This has been going on for almost two years.

Not once has he offered to buy gas or oil for the car. I wonder if he thinks a car runs on "Thank You." I am not a petty person, nor am I in bad financial shape, but I hate to be a sap. What are your feelings on this subject? —FREE TAXI

Dear Free: People who accept favors should reciprocate in some manner. Perhaps your friend feels you would be insulted if he offered to fill the tank. An occasional gift would show appreciation. In any event, "Thanks for the ride" day after day is not enough.

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teenage Smoking," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

WHAT WILL
HER LIFE BE LIKE
ALL-ELECTRIC FUTURE?

Before her 10th birthday, she'll probably have her clothes dry-cleaned electrically right in her closet, push a button and see a complete meal arrive automatically at the table. By the time she's married, an electro-magnetic housekeeper will awaken her, prepare the toast and coffee, open the garage door and warm up the car. And even more wonderful things are on the way.

Science is developing new sources of electricity

American industry recognizes that the future is all-electric. That is why today, more than ever before, practically all segments of industry are channeling tremendous efforts toward finding new ways to produce, deliver and use electricity.

The electric industry, of course, continues to lead in this research. And logically so. Electricity is our business. We have already produced it from a wide variety of sources.

Whatever the source, we have but one purpose: to help you live better, electrically, at the lowest possible cost, both now and in the all-electric future.
