The case of the pampered
sweet potato

The preparation of any Gerber Baby Food is determined by the kind of product it is. (Each one requires its own methods of inspection, detection and protection.) Take the case of Gerber Sweet Potatoes: after harvesting, they're duly inspected and the cream of the crop is chosen. Next, the sweet potatoes are mellowed under controlled temperature and humidity conditions. Then they undergo a low-heat, slow-cook process. This breaks down starches for easy digestibility and protects precious food values.

Individual pampering of this kind goes into the preparation of all Gerber Strained and Junior Foods. For when it comes to babies...mothers and Gerber agree...it's quality first.

Babies are our business...our only business!
