

YOUR PROBLEMS

"Insist the Boys Keep Hands Off"

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 17 and my boy friend, Chuck, is 19. He is a physical culture enthusiast and is always showing me a new judo hold or some body-building exercise.

Last night he tried a double flip on me. I didn't land right and my shoulder was dislocated. It was so painful I thought I broke something so I went in and woke up my folks. They called the doctor.

My father is like a madman over this. He says I can't go with Chuck any more because he's a nut and doesn't know how to treat a lady. Please say something to calm my father down. I like Chuck a lot and he's not as bad as it sounds. — IN A SLING

Dear Sling: What kind of a "lady" lets a fellow practice judo on her?

I'm not going to be much help as far as Chuck is concerned, but maybe I can help you by suggesting that in the future you insist the boys keep their hands off. Build your body on your own, Tarzana.

Dear Ann Landers: I need help and don't tell me my story is so old if I put it to music I could dance to it. It may be old to you but it's new to me.

I learned by accident that my husband had an affair with a woman who pretended to be a friend of mine. When I confronted him with the evidence he broke down and cried. He said he'd only seen her twice and he never wanted to see her again. The woman moved out of town last week to take another job so I half-way believed him.

But how can I trust him after this? If he fooled me so completely how can I be sure he won't do it again? If I weren't such a coward I'd take the children and leave.

How does a woman rebuild her faith in a man after such an ordeal? — CRUSHED SPIRIT

Dear Crushed: Women who pick the past and put it on the mantel as a reminder exclude any hope of a happy life.

Close the door on yesterday not for HIM—but for yourself. Believe in him and let him know that you do. If you fail to meet the challenge you will surely drive him back to her arms — or elsewhere.

Dear Ann Landers: Last year I married a widow who is ten years younger than I am.

I built her a comfortable home and bought her a new car. Three months after our marriage she went 1,000 miles away to visit her daughter. She stayed nine weeks. I sent her $200 a month.

I married this woman for companionship and I'm not getting any. In addition to being lonely when she's away, I have to keep the place straight and cook most of my own meals because our cleaning lady comes in only three days a week.

Last night she told me her daughter is working too hard and she must go out and help her again. Do you have any advice? — MARRIED BUT ALONE

Dear B But A: You are a sap to serve as a long-distance cash register. One trip a year to visit her daughter should be plenty. If she doesn't agree, tell her to stay with her daughter permanently—and get a job.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How to Be Date But Not Be Date," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Anna Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. (© 1961, Field Enterprises, Inc.)

Busch-Nanney Nuptials Read in Episcopal Rites

Approximately 250 guests assembled at the St. Peter's Episcopal Church in San Pedro last Saturday afternoon to witness the wedding of Miss Gloria Jean Busch and R. Richard Nanney. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudger C. Busch, 23861 Ward St. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Helen Nanney, 711 Sartori, and the late Robert H. Nanney.

On the arm of her father, the bride approached the altar wearing a gown of white peau de doie. The bodice was of imported lace sprinkled with pearls and sequins. The full skirt was caught by a bow at the back and fell into a chapel train. A crown of orange blossoms and pearls held the full illusion veil. The bridal bouquet was of white feathered chrysanthemums and stephanotis.

Miss Marilyn Moss was the maid of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. Eugene Weihe and Mrs. Ronald Busch. Both wore American Beauty satin gowns and carried Eucharist lilies.

Pamela Marconi, in a short satin frock and carrying a basket of flowers, with the flower girl and Rick Lavato was the ring bearer.

Jerry Jones was best man and ushers were Larry Hunt and Jack Castle.

Rev. E. C. Blandon officiated at the marriage and the nuptial music was played by Mrs. T. E. Shuck.

A dinner was held at the Torrance Armory, followed by dancing to the music of Sal Francia.

Following the honeymoon, the couple will be at home at 25206 Layton, Torrance.

The bride and her husband were graduated from Torrance High school and El Camino college. He is now affiliated with the Torrance Fire Dept.
