

State Putting Two New Sign Symbols Into Use

Motorists will encounter two new types of signs on California's state highways within the next few months.

The new signs will use symbols to indicate courses of action to be taken by the driver. Studies have indicated that drivers generally understand and act on symbols more rapidly than on written instructions, according to the Division of Highways.

On the left is the sign which will be used to indicate a decrease in the number of lanes (in this case from three lanes to two). On freeways, before they come upon this symbol, drivers will be alerted by a sign saying, "Lane Ends, Merge Left." Variations of this symbol will depend on the number of lanes involved and direction of the merging movement.

WHEN GOING from divided highways to non-divided highways having fewer lanes, a sign saying "End Divided Road" will precede the symbol which will indicate which lane is to be dropped in order to accomplish the merger. The present multi-arrowed signs, which have been used on freeways to indicate a decrease in lanes ahead, and the lettered signs used on other state highways will be replaced as they wear out or are damaged. On the right is a sign which will be used in the future to indicate a winding road.

JUST BEFORE the first turn of the winding road, a curve sign already in use will indicate the direction of the initial curve and usually the speed at which it can be safely taken. The new winding road sign will be located just beyond the first curve and will replace the present sign which spells out "Winding Road." The older signs will be replaced as they wear out or are damaged.

Both new signs have been recommended throughout the nation by the National Joint Committee on Uniform Traffic Control Devices.

Army Pfc. Dale L. Hilliard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Loren G. Hilliard, 21024 New Hampshire, completed the five-week multi-engine medium transport airplane maintenance course at the Aviation School, Fort Rucker, Ala., Dec. 22.

Hilliard was trained to perform organizational maintenance on the Army's multi-engine medium transport aircraft.

He entered the Army in October 1960 and completed basic training at Ft. Ord.

The 22-year-old soldier is a 1958 graduate of Hawthorne High School and attended El Camino College.

Before entering the Army he was employed by Trans World Airlines in Los Angeles.
