Finding Right Person for Temporary Job Firm's Aim

Paying a full-time salary for a part-time job is an evil which many a businessman has had to contend with at one time or another.

Personnel Factors, Inc., 1617 S. Pacific Coast Hwy., has solved this annoying and costly problem. A division of Peakload, the firm which has built a thriving national business by providing top-trained, temporary office workers to help harassed employers over regular "rush work" periods encountered by almost every modern company.

Personnel Factors, Inc., is one of 24 franchises in the United States and Canada.

"The personnel selected by Personnel Factors, Inc., are married, highly experienced office workers, including specialists in everything from high-speed stenography to operators of the latest electronic office equipment," Al Charles, president, said.

"HOWEVER, WE pride ourselves in being able to find the right person for every clerical position plus many more specialized assignments.

"Homemakers who want to work on a temporary basis are the lifeline of our business," Charles added, "but our recruiting goes far beyond that. We have on our registers everyone from grandmothers to grand piano artists, professional models, skaters, and actresses who have polished up their former office skills and are now re-entering the business world for one, two, even five days a week.

A current project sponsored by the Lutheran Laymen's League is the helping to finance various billboards in the metropolitan area which advertise the Lutheran Hour.

Other activities to be included in the March 9 meeting will be an evening devotion and social hour, being conducted by Mr. and Mrs. William McMullen, Rev. and Mrs. A.L.T. Schuetz, and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Kamrath. Presiding over the business session of the evening will be Tom Rupert, president of the local group.
