

Kangaroo Steaks Hold No Interest for Instructor

Glad to return to a knife and fork civilization after several weeks of eating curry and rice with his fingers, Gray Phillips, a newcomer to the El Camino College art faculty, considers American steak, spaghetti and hot dogs with new delight and gastronomic appreciation.

For 14 months Phillips toured Europe, Australia, South America, Africa, and the Far East. He paddled his way by canoe across deep and shallow rivers; he often traversed land donkey-back, avoiding air travel. Though he traveled light, with a single suitcase, he returned with a second which was overflowing with pen and ink drawings of natives of many lands.

MOST INTERESTING to the art instructor was the island of Zambar, where "the smell of fresh cloves is always in the air." Nine-tenths of the world's clove supply is grown here, the artist said.

"Balinese dancing is not as slow and graceful as we think it is," Phillips observes. "It is performed in an exciting tempo accompanied by some 60 xylophones." Considering architecture of India beautiful, he says "Hindu art is fascinating and impressive, yet weighty and oppressive." He added, "The United States leads in contemporary art. Our action school of painting is imitated in all parts of the world."

KANGAROO STEAK is eaten in great quantities in Australia's "outback," which is similar to Western America's desert. This held no interest for Phillips.

The El Camino art instructor taught for four years at Vanderbilt University in Nashville before coming to Southern California at the beginning of the current semester. He staged one-man art shows in Austin, Tex.; Chattanooga, Tenn.; Columbus, Ga., and Auburn University in Alabama. For four years he studied at the Beaux Arts in Paris, France, with Fernand Leger, and he is working on a travel book, a "pictorial review" in pen and ink drawings with captions.

During World War II, Phillips served in the Pacific amphibious forces.

COPTIC CROSSES . . . Instructor Gray Phillips of El Camino College displays antique silver Coptic crosses from Ethiopia and a mango wood goat from Bali which are included in works of art in his collection. Other works come from Australia, Indonesia, Bolivia, and India.

Patrol Outlines Rules For Reporting Crashes

If you want to report a traffic accident, or any other highway emergency, ZENith 1-2000 is the telephone number which will put you in touch with the nearest California Patrol office.

"Remember that it is an emergency number, and should not be used for routine calls to the Patrol," Commissioner Bradford M. Crittenden said.

"ZENith 1-2000 is reserved for reporting accidents and other roadway emergencies. Just go to a telephone, and ask the operator for ZENith 1-2000."

This procedure should be used to report accidents in unincorporated areas and on most freeways. Accidents within cities usually are handled by municipal police agencies.

"If in doubt, ask for ZENith 1-2000, and the Patrol will dispatch an officer or notify the correct agency," the commissioner said.

The Old Timer
"An old timer is a fellow who remembers when folks rested on Sunday, instead of Monday."
