

YOUR PROBLEMS

by Ann Landers

'Way to Separate Nice Guys, Creeps . . .'

Dear Ann Landers: On account of you I will probably be an old maid. You said in your column last year that a girl should not go out with a boy unless he meets her folks.

Well, my mother read that and she said, "Next year when you are old enough to date remember this rule. It's a good one."

Last Saturday afternoon a fellow asked me for my first date. We were at the beach and this real handsome kid came over and invited me to meet him at the movies that night. I said I'd love to but I couldn't go out with a fellow unless my folks met him first. When I invited him to the house, he looked at me as if I were nuts. Then he said, "I am not about to go through an inspection. Forget it."

I've seen him twice since. He says "Hi" and keeps walking.

I'm just heartsick that I lost this chance. Please change your advice.—DATELESS

Dear Dateless: You lost nothing. If the fellow was the right kind he'd have been happy to pick you up at your home as a gentleman should.

Stick to this rule and you'll never regret it. It's an excellent way to separate the nice guys from the creeps.

Dear Ann: I am 22, married almost three years and I have two small children. My husband says I am lazy because I sleep until 11 a.m. or noon. How can I get it through his head that I don't sleep at night because he snores, grinds his teeth, throws his arms and legs over me and hogs the blankets.

After tossing and turning all night I have to get out of bed at 7:30 a.m. and fix him breakfast and feed the children. When he leaves at 8:30, I put the children back in bed with toys to amuse them and I sleep another two or three hours. I've tried staying up from 7:30 on but I'm just about dead the rest of the day.

Don't suggest twin beds. My husband's motto is "The marriage that sleeps together stays together." Please help me.—ADELLE

Dear Adelle: Your husband's motto is fine, except you are not sleeping together. He may be sleeping, but you are up all night.

Twin beds with a single headboard could solve the problem. If he refuses to sail for this, go back to bed in the morning after he leaves and get your rest. And ignore his remarks.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 14 years old. A neighbor asked if I would like to baby-sit for her every Saturday night. I agreed. She pays me $2.50 for the evening.

Now that I have this job my mother says I will not be getting my allowance anymore. She claims a person who earns money should not get an allowance. This doesn't seem fair. What do you think?—DISPLEASED

Dear Displeased: A person who earns a little baby-sitting money should not be penalized by having her allowance cut off. (I assume you're doing something for your allowance besides breathing.)

Tell your Mom you'd like to start a savings account with your baby-sitting money and keep it separate from your allowance.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before you Marry—Is It Love or Sex?" enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed stamped envelope.

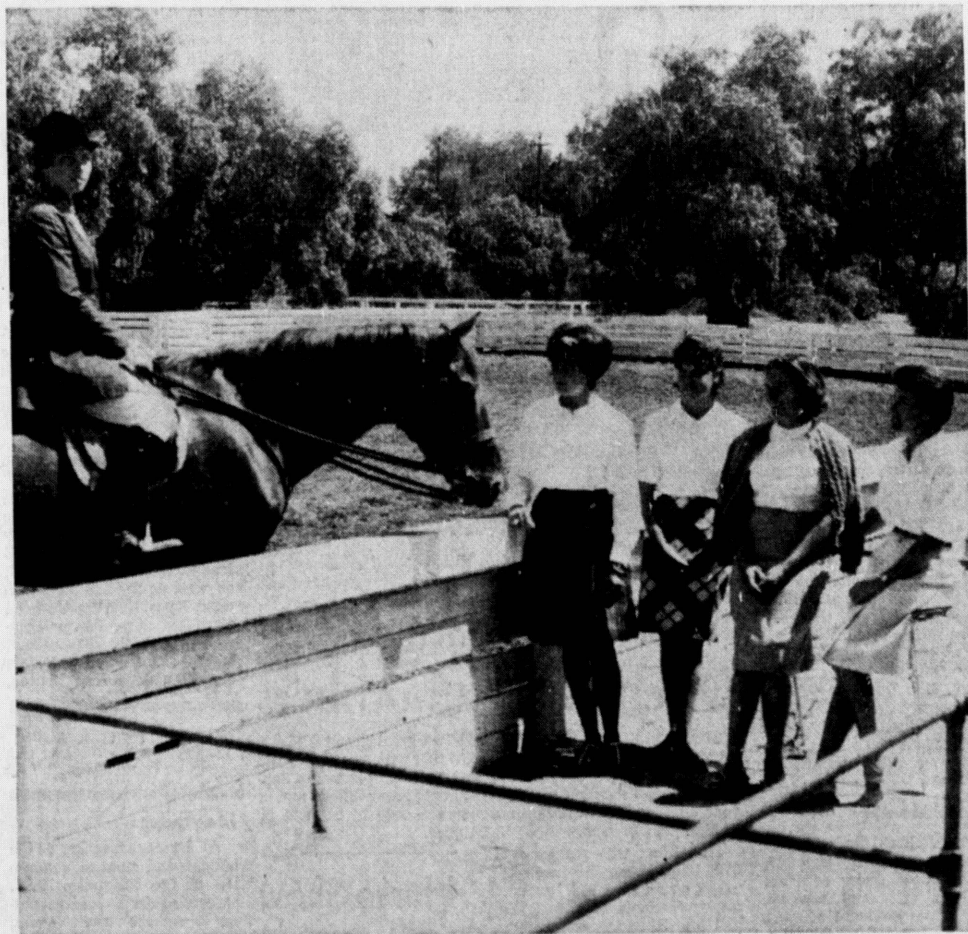

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Permanent silver trophies will be awarded to all winners. The Eli Vanderlip High-Point Perpetual Trophy will go to the junior exhibitor winning the highest points for the show.

Evelyn Jones Exchanges Vows with Philip Rusch

On the arm of her father, Miss Evelyn Marie Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin C. Jones, 22710 Draille Dr., Torrance, came down the aisle of the St. Lawrence Martyr Catholic Church at high noon on July 28 to become the bride of Philip J. Rusch. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Merwin Rusch of Gardena.

The original wedding gown was of white nylon chiffon with lace appliques over white taffeta. The gown had a shallow V neckline, three-quarter sleeves and the full skirt was caught in a bustle at the back. Her silk illusion veil cascaded from a tiara and she carried a bouquet of white feathered carnations and stephanotis.

Miss Lois Rusch was the honor attendant and bridesmaids were Mrs. Glen Seltzer and Mrs. Charles Horvath. All were gowned in blue brocade satin sheaths with matching overskirts. Each carried an arm bouquet of pink Traveler gladioli.

Alfred Brown, Jr., performed the duties of best man and ushers were Thomas Rusch and Charles Horvath. Rev. Charles Ara officiated at the marriage and Mrs. Mary Stoeger played the nuptial music and the "Ave Maria."

A reception was held in the gardens at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Alfred Brown, Sr., registered the 125 guests.

Both the bride and her husband are 1961 graduates of South High School.

They left immediately for Wichita Falls, Texas, where they will make their home while Mr. Rusch is serving with the United States Air Force at Sheppard Base.
