MAGIC CHEF

My God, but the women on television are a shallow collection of wenches! Generally they lack style, mystery, grace, substance and other things that make a woman truly beautiful.

After spending the greater part of the day shuffling through the long list of TV's one-layer female personalities, I became so depressed that I called Marlene Dietrich in New York just to refresh my memory of what a real, completely beautiful woman is like.

That voice! It is beguiling and assured, yet so innocent and elfin, that I laughed at the wonderful incongruity of it.

She not only separates the men from the boys, she divides the women from the girls. Alongside her, the ladies on television seem like teen-age cardboard cut-outs in a village supermarket.

She has written a book titled "Marlene Dietrich's ABC." On the surface it seems a curious collection, but after reading it through, the volume holds an astonishingly honest mirror to a fascinating woman who is sentimental and practical, elegant and forthright, timeless as a pearl.

She told me she had staved away from television because she hasn't found anything to fit. "Some people don't mind jumping in hastily. I have been waiting for something that is fantastic and I haven't found it."

She had some interesting things to say about television in general.

"You can feed your baby peacefully when it's cartoon time. The toddjers will sit transfixed and still -no mischief will be done, no cries or falls will jar your heart. In the good old days an aunt would come and read stories so you could do your chores. But aunts now live in other towns, it seems. You know how long your peace will last; the programs are a clock sounding the hours.

"The violence, debauchery, the sugar-dripping falsity, glorified depravity, vulgarity—the age-old reagants of allurement are there to search you out. Don't turn the knob . . ."

Here is one star's book that wasn't ghostwritten. Among the comments I found interesting.

SEX: "In America an obsession. In other parts of the world a fact."

BEAUTY: "The emphasis on visual beauty, particularly in America, is taking on dangerous proportions. Dangerous especially for the youth. The youth of today are thrown into utter confusion almost sysetmatically and I consider it a miracle that they manage to survive with some sanity . . . In the realm of love and happiness, beauty lies like a feather on the scale of values. This is one of the most shocking realizations that can come to the beautiful girl . . ."

SLEEP: "Something holy."

CHEAP: "Nothing that is cheap looks expensive." EXPENSIVE: "Expensive things LOOK expensive. There's always a connoisseur in the crowd.'

KISSES: "Don't waste them. But don't count them."

LOVE LETTERS: "Write them-it will do you good. Keep copies." . .

MOROCCO: "Looks better in films."

ITALIAN MEN: "Beautiful hot air."
PRIDE: "In love, pride is not as dangerous to men as it is to women. A man forgets his pride when pride is not the issue."

PANTS: "In Texas, when you want to say a man is beautiful or handsome, you simply say, 'His pants

FRAISES DES BOIS: "The tiny wild straw-berries of France. Only when you have tasted them do you know what summer tastes like."

DIETRICH: "In the German language-the name for a key that opens all locks. Not a magic key, A very real object, necessitating great skill in the
