In response to demands of many Torrance social and business organizations, The Pen & Quill hotel-restaurant in Manhattan Beach has made a special banquet menu available for dinner meetings of 15 persons or more.

Betty Holland, catering and banquet manager, announces that the new banquet menu leads off with six different complete dinners each served for $3.25. With seven other price ranges from which party groups of 15 to 500 may select, indications are that the Prime Rib of Beef at $4.50 will become the most popular entree.

The Pen & Quill has long been noted for its excellent private-party facilities, luxurious accommodations and superlative food.

Dick Starr will appear at Charley's, 1625 Cabrillo Ave., playing popular songs and your favorites at the organ.

Starr is making a reappearance in this area after a short entertainment tour.

Charley's is featuring his delicious charcoal broiled steaks that are delighting everyone, and their famous prime ribs as just are at their best, also.

Tropicana Lanes Set Gala Party

The Tropicana Lanes is scheduled to celebrate its third anniversary with a gala party to be held on the concourse of the beautiful bowling emporium on Monday night, at 9:30.

On the bandstand will be George "Stardust" Green and his Trio, and co-hosts Lenny Eisenberg and Jerry Lash will be in charge of the emcee chores.

Many valuable prizes will be awarded, and former Inglewood Goose Girl, Darienne Loomis, will attend.

The original vapor droplet for a raindrop or snowflake may, by joining others, multiply 8,000,000 times before it reaches the ground.

WARM WEATHER TIP... The new Olympic Ice Arena at 23770 S. Western Ave. is open daily and offers skating fans a choice of facilities, including parties, instruction, and open skating. John Haretakis' Silver Skates Restaurant is under construction, and when completed will offer diners a magnificent view of the skating floor.

Cine-matics

by Jo Beau

Not too long ago Rene ventured to Hollywood. To take in Meredith Willson's "Music Man."

Here is a motion picture with everything: history, tradition, warmth, love, and of course, music.

The days when this country was in its infancy are shown in the setting of the state of Iowa (pronounced loway).

The people are portrayed just as you would imagine. The mayor is a know-nothing political who owns a good portion of the local real estate.

The mayor's wife is, of course, the head of every women's and temperance club in the town.

Marion, the pretty librarian, is condemned for exposing the children of the town to such "dirty books" as Romeo and Juliet, and Omar Khayyam.

Marion continually attempts to raise the cultural standard of the local gentry but the mayor's wife with her following want to leave it alone.

The meat of the story is centered around the same basic philosophy that made this country as great and rich as it is. The idea of rugged individualism, ingenuity and salesmanship.

Professor Harold Hill played by Robert Preston personifies this. He comes into this seemingly quiet town and proceeds to find something that will give him the lever he needs to sell the town a boys band complete with uniforms, hats, and instruments. Finding none he creates a demand using the new pool table in town to convince the River City people that they have "trouble" and the only way to save the children is to have a boys band.

The final scenes are such that you will come out whistling the music and wanting to go back to see it again.

Crowds Seeing 'No Time for Sergeants'

"No Time for Sergeants," currently playing Fridays and Saturdays at the Drawing Room Theater, 1560 Manhattan Beach Blvd., is playing to near capacity audiences.

Saturday night's performance was completely sold out. A special Sunday evening performance was staged to accommodate additional reservations.

"No Time for Sergeants" is about the humorous misadventures of two hillbillies drafted into service, and the near catastrophic events leading up to their midnight transfer to another branch of the service. There are 26 men and only one woman in the cast. Closing date is Oct. 6.

Call 374-1309 for reservations. Ticket prices are $1.80 and $2.

Death Valley in California still holds the record for the highest temperature officially recorded in the United States. On July 10, 1913, the mercury climbed to 134 degrees.
