South Opens Grid Campaign Against Long Beach Jordan

Hopes buoyed by the return of injured fullback Dan Ely, South High inaugurates its football campaign at 8 p.m. tomorrow against Long Beach Jordan on the Panther's gridiron.

The Spartans earned an opening decision over Jordan last year, but head South coach Dave Tollefson feels Long Beach is superior to last year's team.

Tollefson points to the big Panther line which heads up a good passing attack.

THE SOUTH boss also reports the Jordan line is not quick and lacks good team pursuit.

In the Long Beach Milk Bowl, Jordan played a 6-6 tie with Poly High in 30 minutes of football, but absorbed a 13-0 defeat from Millikan in another 30-minute tussle.

Ely, a veteran 220 pounder, was not expected to compete in the opening contest, if at all during the early part of the season.

But, after a check at the UCLA Medical Center, the hard-charging back was given an okay for his injured knee.

TEAMING WITH Ely in the backfield will be Phil Fish, and Tim Roettger.

Tollefson plans to take advantage of his backfield speed to sweep the Jordan ends. Fish runs a 10.3 hundred while Fleener covers the century in 10.2 seconds.

ROETTGER is a hard runner for a quarterback and a consistent passer.

He will have a pair of tall ends with good hands at targets.

STEVE JOGSMAN and Phil Dowling will open at the flankers slots for the Spartans. Ron Rollins and a transfer from Kentucky, David Watkins, are also expected to see action at end.

South will use the Wing-T with the Belly Series, but Tollefson points out that defense is still a big questionmark.

The Spartan mentor feels his club can win if they can hold Jordan to a pair of tallies. Tollefson believes the South eleven will be able to shove three touchdowns across.

TORRANCE CHASES INITIAL VICTORY

Moving up what head coach Irv Kasten considers a notch in class, Torrance opposes defending Bay League champ Inglewood at 8 p.m. tomorrow on the Tartar gridiron. Redondo earned a 19-6 victory over Torrance in last week's opener, but Kasten figures the Sentinels possess an even stronger club than the Seahawks.

Registration Set to Open For Football

Inglewood opened on the right foot last weekend with a shocking win over Catholic League powerhouse, Mount Carmel.

The Sentinels saw a title-winning aerial combination of quarterback Troy Winslow and end Dave Kaiser graduate but have another top gunner returning.

Big, 190 pounds, Jim Ash moves into the signal calling spot. Although he is not as accurate as Winslow, he throws more and still gets the job done effectively.

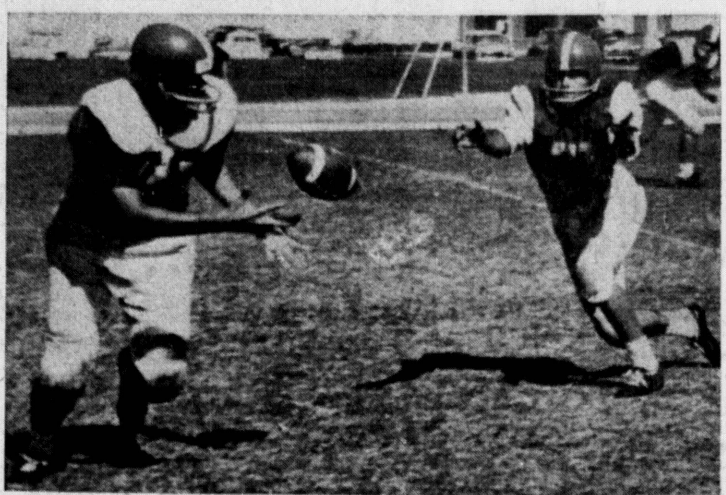

ANCHORING the Inglewood line is 205-pound senior Jeff Fox.

Kasten points out the ends do not have as much speed as last year.

Redondo's aerial game hurt the Tartars according to Kasten.

The THIS mentor was disappointed in the performance of the defensive secondary against the Seahawks. Quarterback Bob Johnson threw for two touchdowns last week, and has been drilling his team in pass defense the past week.

With halfback Mike Cicchine operating as a break-away threat, Kasten plans to have the Tartars play a ball control game against Inglewood.

BACKFIELD COMBINATION . . . Tossing the pigskin to Jim Dutton is John Torok (71), veteran El Camino quarterback. Torok's All American honors will be of little use to the Warriors tomorrow against Harbor since the top signal-caller is out indefinitely with a shoulder injury. Tomorrow's tune-up will be the final exhibition game for the Tribe and the Seahawks before conference competition gets underway.

Tribe Fortunes on Upswing On Heels of Glittering Win

With veteran quarterback John Torok side lined with an arm injury, El Camino journeys to Harbor College tomorrow for an 8 p.m. exhibition contest.

Torok, an honorable mention member of last year's Metropolitan Conference squad, was out of commission last week as the Warrior pulled a major upset over Boise, Idaho, taking a 38-6 decision.

El Camino and Harbor are old foes, but will meet this season under different circumstances.

THE BIG TEN, a high school age league, will be played at McMaster Park beginning Tuesday, Oct. 9.

Boys 6 to 9 may play in the Ivy League at most parks with formal leagues at McMaster Park.

Dave Tollefson, South High football coach, will conduct a clinic at Waltheria Park on Saturday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m., giving coaches and interested adults tips on the game and coaching.

AT 1 P.M., players will be helped by the coaches. Further information may be obtained at any city park, or by calling John Ferstead, FA 8-5310, Ext. 263.

Knights To Engage Crusaders

Somebody's losing streak will end when Bishop Montgomery hosts Mount Carmel tomorrow in an 8 p.m. practice gridiron clash.

Mt. Carmel, Catholic League power, dropped its opening contest last week to defending Bay League title-holder, Inglewood.

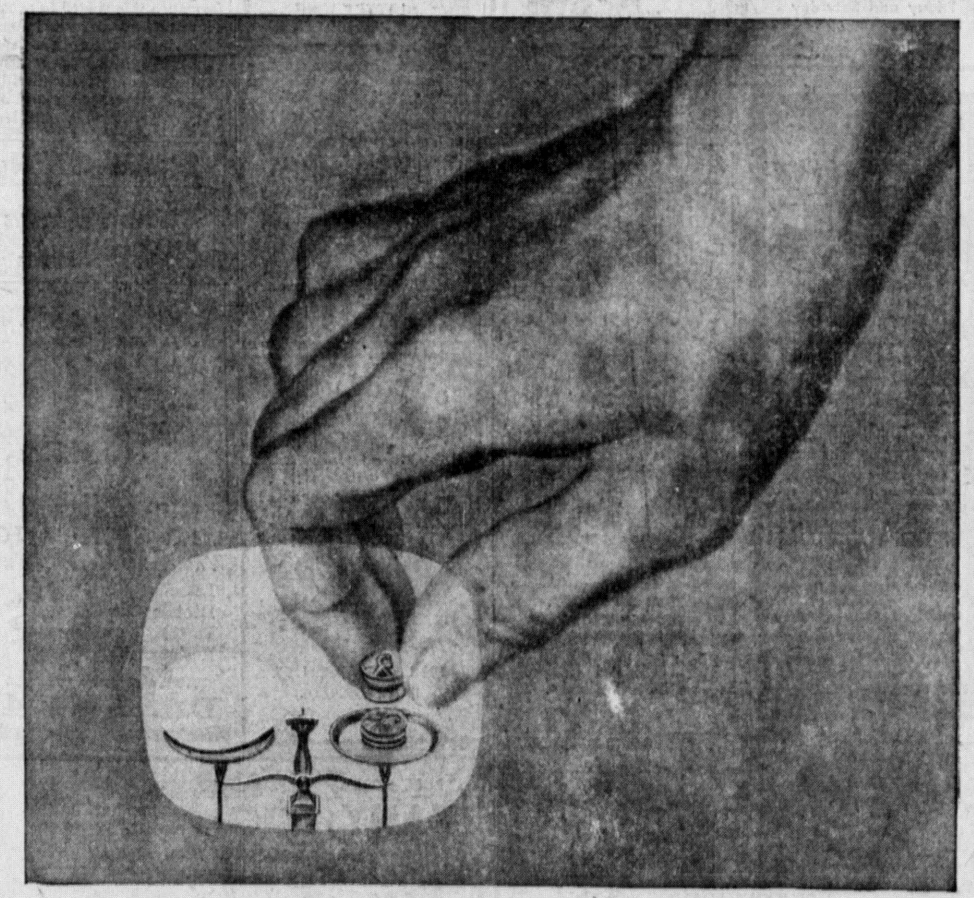

The Knights also suffered an opening loss to Holtville.

All of the Holtville-Montgomery scoring came in the opening period.

Holtville snagged a bad Knight pass from center on a punt situation and took it into the end zone for six points. The visitors then converted for a 7-0 lead.

Bishop Montgomery tallied following a 47-yard pass interception.

Dick Carbajal, all-league defensive halfback, alternated between quarterback and halfback to spark the Knights.

Let's look at the price of eggs

What did you pay for eggs this week? Probably a little more or a little less than last week. Prices of things go up and down because of many factors . . . such as supply and demand, wages, materials and shipping costs, and needed profits. It all gets more complex when you consider taxes and competition, or compare our economy to that of other countries. Now millions of people can learn more about economics from a stimulating series of television programs on The American Economy. Conducted by leading educators and economists, "College of the Air" will describe how our economic system works . . . how it provides stability and growth . . . how it enhances individual freedom. With the belief that only through broader education can we meet the growing needs of tomorrow, American business is giving financial support to "College of the Air." The people of Union Carbide are proud to be among the donors to such a worthwhile project.

Starting in September, The American Economy can be seen in the Torrance area on station KNXT, Los Angeles, at 6 a.m. Monday through Friday. For names of colleges giving credit for this course, write Union Carbide Corporation, 270 Park Avenue, New York 17, N. Y.

STONE WALL . . . West High linemen run into an impregnable wall as they attempt to block a Palos Verdes conversion in last week's pigskin opener. The Warriors will meet Lawndale tomorrow night at North High. After scouting the Cardinals in their recent loss to Leuzinger, West mentor William Parton feels they will be rough to handle. Warriors Attempt Comeback At Cost of Rough Lawndale

Still in the apprentice stage of their football careers, West High griders oppose improving Lawndale tomorrow at 8 p.m. on the North High field.

Two foes will be on the field for the Warriors tomorrow—Lawndale and experience. Experience was found lacking in West's grid opener last week against Palos Verdes as it took a 51-0 shellacking.

Warner Elevens Inaugurate Year

Initiating the Pop Warner football season, Torrance teams dropper three contests, winning only two, in opening-day action.

Both victories came in Pee-wee Division contests.

In the most one-sided contest of the day, the Torrance Vikings romped to a 67-0 victory over the Inglewood Outlaws. Eight Vikings crossed the goal as Coach Aramis Dandoy substituted freely.

WARRIOR MENTOR William Parton has made several adjustments and feels certain his athletes will improve with every contest.

Miles Moore will move into the fullback slot, Jim Bell into the wingback position, and Allan Thomas will open at halfback as West presents almost an entirely new backfield.

ON THE LINE, John Cochran will transfer to center from left end with Steve Cooke taking over the vacated flanker job.

In the opening contest, the Warriors were lacking 17 players who were not eligible since they had not completed the mandatory 10 days of practice.

OUT OF THE 17, all now eligible, Parton feels five or six will be of real benefit to West.

Since last Friday's debacle, the Warriors have added a few plays and worked on pass defense.

LAWNDALE fell before rapidly-rising Luezingler, 20-6 in its opening contest.

The Cardinals work out of a Split Wing-T with their fullback and halfback hogging most of the ground-gaining honors. Lawndale demonstrated a well-coached, well-drilled eleven in the first game.

BEFORE HALFTIME, every Torrance man had seen action. In exactly the opposite of the Viking-Outlaw clash, the Torrance Oilers slipped by the Rolling Hills Colts, 7-6. The Colts tallied first, chalking up six points on an interception, but Torrance came back to win the contest with a third quarter marker.

MIDGET DIVISION play saw the Manhattan Beach Waves take a 13-0 decision from the Torrance Chargers. Twice the Chargers penetrated inside the Waves' five-yard stripe but could not push over a tally.

Getting off to a poor first half start, the Torrance Blue Devils fell, 24-6, to the Inglewood Rustlers in Junior Bantam Division play. After intermission, the Devils battled the eventual winners on even terms.
