Top British Journalist Plans Visit

Malcolm Muggeridge, jour nalist and former editor-in-chief of the British humor mag-azine, Punch, will speak in the Campus Theater of El Camino College, Wednesday, Oct. 31 at

Author of "A Winter in Moc-cow," Muggeridge has, since 1957, been writing for the Sunday Pictorial, New Statesman, and Nation, traveled to the USSR and the United States with Prime Minister Macmillan as correspondent for the Daily Mirror, and will soon publish his new book, "A Portrait of Our Time.'

Muggeridge's lecture, Fool's Eye-View of the World," is scheduled as the first in a series at El Camino College this

Gas Company Wins Awards At Convention

The Southern California Gas Co, has been awarded first prize in the American Gas Assn.'s annual nationwide pub-lic relations contest, according to an announcement made by G. H. Babbe, manager of the firm's Southwest division in Inglewood.

The award, made in Atlantic City during the association's recent annual convention, was based on the utility's public information program which told gas customers how to get the post value from their with most value from their win-heating budget, Babbe

THE DIVISION manager pointed out that the program is a campaign explaining why gas bills are higher in winter. Babbe recalled that last winter's campaign made use of an animated cartoon character "Nippy Weather" in informing ers how to save on their fuel bills.

F. C. Sullivan, gas company vice president, accepted the award for his company. The Southland utility has received naitonal recognition with its award-winning public relations programs in five of the last six annual contests, which included entries from most of the leading gas utilities in the United States.

The AGA also honored 22 in-dividual members for their work in the industry John Riegle Jr., petroleum engineer for the gas company, received an award for his pioneer work in storing natural gas under-
