No one is immune to thrush. No one is immune to thrush. It occurs in all parts of the world, in all races, and at all ages in both sexes. Newborn infants, however, are particularly susceptible, as are older infants afficited with a cleft palate or other mouth deformity.

THE CONDITION is caused THE CONDITION is caused by a yeastlike organism (Candida albicans) that is present in the mouth and intestines of about 30 to 50 per cent of healthy children and adults, but, except in the newborn period, the organism does not usually invade a healthy membrane. The reported incidence of the infection among the the inside of the lips, though involvement may be more extensive. These spots may grow larger in the absence of treatment and join together to form large uneven patches. When a spot in an infected area is scraped, a bleeding surface is exposed. Candida infection is also a not infrequent complication of diaper rash. Local pain and tenderness are usually absent.

Judy Eng, former art major at El Camino College, represented the San Pedro Scout Explorer Units 949X and 949S in the presentation of the first buffalo award to the Los Angeles Harbor Department for "exceptional service to scouting."

Designed and created by Miss Eng. 20, of Redondo Beach, a June, 1962 graduate, the miniature ceramic buffalo is symbolic of the original bronze buffalo at Gilwell Park, England.

Bernard J. Caughlin, general manager of the Port of Los Angeles, a accepted the award.
