Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter is being married in February. Last night she told me she doesn't want her me she doesn't want her brother's wife to attend.

My daughter pointed out that her sister-in-law never speaks—she screams. We've asked her on countless occasions to please lower her voice, but it doesn't help. No matter how large the group this girl's voice can be heard above all others. above all others.

I don't see how we can invite our son to the wedding and ask him not to bring his wife. Our daughter threatens to elope unless we do this her way. Please give us your opinion.—DISTRAUGHT

Dear Distraught: If this were my problem I'd buy the girl a ladder and tell her to be careful on the way down.

You simply cannot exclude your daughter-in-law from the wedding. It would be a cruel insult both to your son and to
