

Charles McCabe, Esquire

The good and sporting life, personalized by baseball, the four-martini lunch, and the clip joint, is being threatened again. This time by a foe more wily than even the lads who shacked up in the belly of the Trojan Horse.

The kindly Internal Revenue Service, that is. The IRS this year is insisting that the expense account be removed from the high reaches of imaginative belles lettres and returned to the prosaic world of double-entry bookkeeping.

This is a blow. It will revolutionize our culture. Or at least that sub-culture occupied by baseball, clip joints, and long liquid lunches.

Attorneys for both the National and American Leagues appeared recently to knock the proposal that will require all businessmen to keep detailed receipts of all entertainment and gift outlays of more than $10.

The advocates expressed fear that telling the exact and specified truth about baseball spending would affect the advance sales of season tickets to corpora-

As indeed it might. That ball game attendance is absolutely needed to promote the manufacture and sale of Avantis or tomato paste is a proposition I for one would not care to defend. Any more than I would argue our missile program would be hurt if deductable blondes were thrown out.

Martinis? The bad news about them comes from the president of a Chicago employment agency, Lon D. Barton, who says the three-or-four-martini lunch is on the way out in the mid-West.

"Chicago businessmen used to average two and a half drinks per lunch," he said. "But the Windy City is down to one and a half now."

* 10 He pronounced the death knell on the boozy lunch In two of its bastions, Los Angeles and San Francisco. These towns, he said "rate three drinks for lunch in the advertising business and New York is a two-drink city." The researcher added ominously, "the Chicago trend will catch on out West."

This enforced moderation, he pointed out, will come because "Corporation comptrollers and federal income tax men are looking more keenly into expense accounts."

Clip joints? Mike Romanoff's, just about the only decent restaurant in Los Angeles, is closing, and Mike lays the blame on the feds.

"The drop in expense account spending is going to affect all the high-class restaurants," Mike said, "mine is just the first to close."

Nobody, not even Mike, has ever been able to convince me that, short of breast of phoenix in aspic, it is possible to put $30 worth of honest food and wine before two people at lunch; but tabs in excess of that picked up at 21 and Le Pavillon in New York. There are a couple of other traps that are not far behind.

But the clip joint, with the help of IRS, has priced itself out of the market by its own rapacity. The owners have allowed their costs to rise beyond reason. As Mr. Romanoff said, "There is no longer room for a restaurant of this kind. Its operation is much too costly.

"There's a new type of snobbery—a shirtless, coatless, tieless type of snobbery. They don't want to go anywhere they have to dress."

I had not thought I would ever be caught delivering a panegyric to the kindly tax collector. If, however, he can abet the end of these incredible traps, where the help displays all the politesse of the Marquis de Sade with a hangover, then I say three loud ones and a tiger.

But I shall view the passing of the four-martini lunch with a tinge of regret. Not to speak of the virtual abolition of baseball (if we are to believe those tear-streaked lawyers).

Aeronca Quintet Whips Murphy's

Torrance Recreation basket- by guard Jim Mannix, with 10 Torrance Recreation basket-ball got off to a quick start on Thursday with the Aeronca quintet coming from behind to nip Murphy's, 41-40. Paced by the 13-point ef. forts of guard Bill Clark and and manager Jerry Mellvaine, Torrance Recreation basket-back, five points; forward Mike Andrews, three points, forts of guard Bill Clark and and manager Jerry Mellvaine, forward Ronnie Temple, Aeronca came back from an 18-16 halftime deficit to post James Carter came off the

D

Torrance Win Earns OPEN SUNDAY County Championship

First place in the American League of Los Angeles County Baseball circuit today belongs to the Torrance Bullets following a 7-4 victory over the second-place Compton Dons. Victory gave the Bullets a 10-2 season record. Only the Matadors, the third place team, managed to whip Torrance. After lasting through a wild first inning, hurler John Marsden threw three-hit ball to lead Torrance to the championship. IN THE initial frame, Compton jumped on Marsden for three runs, via an error, two walks, and two base hits. Tor-rance came right back with four tallies in its half of the carch against the left field inning and was never headed. fence and the Don threat was geles County Winter Baseball Imming and was never neaded.

Great defensive play by Bob Wallace. Mike Brooks, and Jack Crist kept Marsden out of trouble.The sixth stanza, Comp-The can and the Don thread was erased.
Nickoloff, John Treece, and Rudy Perez wielded bats for the team's 10 hits.League.
Regardless of the outcome of the Gounty Winter Baseball League.
Regardless of the outcome of the county Winter Baseball League.Wallace.
Jack Crist kept Marsden out of trouble.Nickoloff, John Treece, and Torrance, collecting seven of the team's 10 hits.Regardless of the outcome of the County Tournament the weekend of Jan. 19, along with six other ball clubs.

League

OLD-TIME DRIVER . . . Veteran Billy Cantrell of Anahein will be the solid favorite this afternoon in the first Cal-ifornia Racing Assn. big car race of 1963 at Ascot Park. Cantrell was the second-ranking driver for 1962, winning five main events on the Gardena oval.

Big Cars Initiate Ascot Park Year

Those roaring big cars of the California Racing Assn. open the official 1963 season this afternoon with a field of more than 40 speedsters staging an eight-event, 30-lap main event affair at Ascot Park. Qualifying time trials open the show at 12:30 p.m., with the first race slated for 2:30 p.m.

Cantrell won no less than five Ascot main events last possible Indianapolis consider-year, and in other events de-ation will be high-grooving feated the likes of Indianapolis greats A. J. Foyt, Parnelli Jones and Jim Hurtibise.

Jones and Jim Hurtibise. Also rating high will be such aces as Northridge's one-armed wonder, Allen Heath, back again in the powerful Vel's Torrance Ford T-Bird fuel-injected bomb; Lakewood's fast rising Bob Coulter, San Diego's Don Thomas, and third-ranked Dee Jones of Phoenix.

fast rising Bob Coulter, San Diego's Don Thomas, and third-ranked Dee Jones of Phoenix. most of them will be ready for MAKING A concerted bid for the opener.

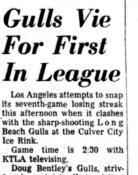

ANCHORS AWEIGH . . . Three lovely young ladies make an attractive addition to any boat, and they will all be on hand at the new Long Beach Arena until January 12 for the world's first show devoted exclusively to salling and yachts, the First Annual International Sailboat and Yacht Show. Show princesses are (L to R) Myra McCourtney, Pat Thompson, and Elleen Wible.

(Public Notice) TH-1245 CERTIFICATE OF BUSINESS, FICTITIOUS NAME cting a bus Miralest ed does certify he business at 2809 Via te. California, under The t

(Public Notice)

State of California, Los Angeles County: On Dec. 12th, 1962, before me, a Notary Public in and for said State, personally appeared Arthur Les Bar-nett known to me to be the person nett kn long Bentley's Guils, striv-ing to maintain their victory pace in the California Hockey League, will be seeking their seventh triumph of the young season. Although tied by three opponents, the Gulls remain undefeated, holding second place behind Burbank's soaring Stars.

SNOW

Dick Wilson, left wing for the Gulls, returns to action fol lowing a two week layoff. He will team with center Ken Wat-son and wing Vern Wildeman on one forward wall.

This afternoon's match may resolve into a high scoring af-fair. In their last two games, the Canadians gave promise of developing into a highly offen-sive minded club. Long Beach, on the other hand, has shown explosive power in nine starts, averaging just under six goals per game quintet wound up in double figures, but it was a 37-point effort by the great Vaquero center John Block that provided the difference. Sophomore Ed Briscoe can-ned 21 points in the conference opener to pace the surprising Seahawk attack. Al Ryan hit 14 digits and Jim Leslie pump-ed in 12 more, but the Harbor trio could not overcome the Block-paced Glendale power-

SUBSTITUTE Bill Rozich substitutes and concerning and a second seco Tournament while Harbor won the classic's consolation crown for the second consecutive season. IN THE FINAL round of the tourney, Glendale upset pow-erful Fresno City College, previously rated as the top junior college club in the state. On Tuesday, Harbor will con-tinue its Western State Confer-ence campaign against a weak Ventura five. On Friday, Ven-tura dropped a 78-53 duke to circuit foe Pierce. Briday will find the Sea.

pr. 799

988

'TIL 5:30 P.M.

ANUARY 6, 1963

Genuine

