Don't Thank Me For New Title of College

By CHARLES E. CHAPEL
Assemblyman, 46th District

South Bay State College has been renamed by the Board of Trustees of the California State Colleges. It is now known as "The California State College at Palos Verdes." I am not responsible for the new name or the location of the college in the area known as the Palos Verdes Peninsula.

Richard Richards, former state senator from Los Angeles, and I were responsible for all the enabling legislation and other measures establishing the South Bay State College. We always intended that the college would be located in what most people call "the South Bay," namely that portion of Los Angeles County whose shoreline is washed by the beautiful blue water of the Santa Monica Bay, an inlet of the Pacific Ocean.

WE DID not try to dictate the precise location of the college, but had legal opinions to the effect that our legislation, which has been in the California statutes for a long time, would result in locating the college in any one of three Assembly districts, namely those represented by the Honorable Clayton Dills, the Honorable Vincent Thomas, or me. When the Board of Trustees of the California State Colleges said they were going to put South Bay State College on 100 acres of land at the Fox Hills Country Club, many newspapers, and thousands of citizens wrote letters, telephoned, and personally called members of the board of trustees.

In addition, they wrote to the governor and other prominent people. The newspapers published editorials, news stories, and letters to the editor, protesting the location of the South Bay State College at the Fox Hills Country Club.

ALL OF this activity stimulated the adrenal glands of the trustees, and they slowly but gradually began to see that they had made a mistake in considering the Fox Hills Country Club or the Inglewood Country Club as possible sites for the college. Eventually a great light dawned! The sun arose again! The South Bay State College was moved back to the South Bay and re-christened.

Meanwhile, thousands of people wrote to me from Palos Verdes Estates, Rolling Hills Estates, Rolling Hills, Portuguese Bend, and other areas on the Palos Verdes Peninsula which are in unincorporated county territory. Some wanted the college on the Palos Verdes Peninsula, some did not want it there. Simultaneously, I received hundreds of letters from people in Torrance. Some wanted the college in Torrance and others did not. Just to make life more interesting for me, people in Playa Del Rey and Westchester wrote and said they thought the college should be in their neighborhoods.

ACTUALLY, we were fortunate in getting the college back where it belonged all the time. The Legislature does not select the actual site. This is done by the board of trustees. They also have the legal right to name the college. You can give me a small part of the credit for bringing the college back to the South Bay, if you wish, but give all the credit, glory, honor, laud and praise for the site selection and curious new name of the college to the Board of Trustees of the California State Colleges. Also, if you do not like the location or the name, tell the Board of Trustees about it, please, but not me!

Commission Names Morgan President

Members of the Torrance Airport Commission have elected Homer Morgan as president of the commission for the next year. Morgan was elected unanimously to the post at a meeting of the commission held July 11.

Within a few years, the new college will have an enrollment of about 17,000 students and it will grant both bachelor and master degrees. It will grant bachelor degrees at the end of four years and when it eventually becomes a five-year college, as already provided by law, it will grant master degrees.

Finally, at the time this is printed, we do not know when the Legislature will adjourn and return home, but it is probably best to send all mail to me at Post Office Box 327, Redondo Beach.

Funds Marked For Carson Area

Allocation of funds for street improvement in the Carson area has been approved by the Board of Supervisors.

Work will begin on widening the north side of 223rd Street east of Main Street. Slated to begin within the next 15 days is a similar job on Carson Street at Berendo Avenue.

Firms Get Contracts

Six Torrance firms were awarded contracts totaling $26,713 this week by the Small Business Administration. The contract awards were made by the Small Business Administration on behalf of several government agencies.

The Tipco Co. received two awards for construction and painting totaling $7,000. Keith and Keith Construction, Doyle Brothers, Inc., and Blaine R. Butcher all received contracts worth from $3,500 to nearly $6,000 for various construction projects.

All contracts were awarded to the lowest bidder in accordance with the set-aside cooperative program of the Small Business Administration.
