New Skipperette Sought For Fisherman's Fiesta

The Los Angeles Harbor area became the scene of a two-week search today to choose a beauty queen to reign over the nation's most colorful fall spectacle — the 1963 Fishermen's Fiesta at the Port of Los Angeles in San Pedro.

The youthful Miss chosen as this year's Fiesta Skipperette will reign over a court of an estimated half million people during the three-day shore-and-water pageant Sept. 27, 28 and 29.

SHE WILL become the most photographed person at one of the world's most photographed events, and she will represent the spirit and color of one of history's oldest human endeavors.

Parents See Children in Production

Children at the 223rd Street School recently entertained parents and visitors with a play, "Anyone for the Moon?" Miss Carolyn Stevens, playground supervisor, acted as director.

Playing parts in the production were Elvire DeWitt, Steven Slivickoff, Richard Freshour, Richard Bailey, Linda Foster, Brent Johnson, Pat Negron, and Marie Negron.

Others were Alexander Aguilar, Chaundel Johnson, Gwenn Shaw, and John Carmen.

After the play, refreshments were served by the 223rd Street PTA.

Army Pvt. Bobby R. Thornton, whose wife, Glady, and parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Thornton, live at 1319 W. 221st St., completed a four-week wheeled-vehicle maintenance course at the U. S. Army School in Germany, July 19.

Thornton, a member of Headquarters Co. of the Eighth Aviation Battalion in Germany, entered the Army in December, 1962, and completed basic training at Fort Ord.

The 24-year-old soldier was graduated from Harbor City Christian High School.

Final curtain calls for "A Houseboat Named Pebbles," Chapel Theatre's latest production, will be tomorrow and Saturday night as the C. Y. Lee play winds up its run.

Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. at the theater, located near the Smith Brothers' Fish Shanty. The original play by C. Y. Lee, author of the "Flower Drum Song," has been well received by capacity crowds each week-end.

Lee selected Chapel Theatre to premier his newest play after seeing their rehearsals last summer. Fred West has directed the play, and the cast features Kirk Davidman and Gretchen Cole in the main roles.

Tickets are still available, and may be reserved at the box office.

Name for Theater Announced

Torrance's newest theater has been named, according to officials of Sterling Theatres. The new, modern, first-run theater located on Rolling Hills Plaza Shopping Center at Crenshaw Boulevard and Pacific Coast Highway will be called "Rolling Hills Theatre."

"While the name selected is colorful, easy to pronounce and remember, the judges were confronted with the problem of the location actually being in Torrance and not in Rolling Hills," theater officials said.

"The Rolling Hills Plaza has been so successfully established, the judges felt any other name selected would be confusing," they added.

Each contestant who submitted the "Rolling Hills" name will receive a complimentary pass which will admit the contestant for one year. All other contestants will receive a pass good for one visit. All passes will be placed in the mail soon.

Construction of the new theater is progressing on schedule, and progress now points to a mid-September opening.

TALK OF THE WORLD

CAPE TOWN — They are blaming the mayor of Cape Town for what happened when 10-year-old Marian Friedman gave her first public piano recital recently. Angry music-lovers claim he should have known what would happen when 5,000 people try to get into a City Hall designed to seat 1,400.

Queues to hear her play started forming early in the morning and by the time the doors opened the line stretched nearly half a mile down the street. This was something never before seen in this city — and just to hear a local girl at the keyboard.

But when the doors opened things went wrong. Queue-jumpers stormed municipal officials at the doors and in two minutes the place was in a state of pandemonium. Passers-by found themselves swept into the hall and ticket-holders who had booked a week ahead were forced back into the street.

Officials eventually were forced to chain and padlock the doors — thus excluding late-arriving members of the municipal orchestra booked as accompanists for the child-pianist.

ordered 3,000 nightgowns for his little patients.

When the question was raised at a meeting of the Hospital Board, there were no objections about the order for the nightgowns, but members were puzzled and bewildered about their somewhat strange dimensions.

Said a woman member: "These nightgowns are fine for freaks, but useless for anybody of normal proportions. What are we supposed to do with them?"

"The armholes are that big," said a doctor, making a circle with his thumb and forefinger, "and the bodies that big," extending his arms in a fisherman's stretch.

Mostert explained the stocks had been ordered without knowing the age groups of the prospective wearers. He assumed the manufacturers had tried to strike a compromise — without success.

Six thousand larger sleeves will now be ordered to match the rest of the garments.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT By FRED NEHER

When asked what a legend is, a certain professor of English replied: "A lie that attains dignity with age."

Residents of other communities who are employed in the Los Angeles Harbor fishing industry are also eligible.

"Deadline for entries is midnight, Aug. 15, with preliminary judging Aug. 19 and final judging Aug. 28.

"We cannot urge too strongly that all applications be made promptly," Mrs. Evich stated.

Along with selection of the "Skipperette" judges will also name two "Skipperette Mates" who will assist with official duties.
