Override Tax

Community Problem, Says Superintendent

A group of about 250 community leaders heard Dr. J. H. Hull, superintendent of schools, tell them the financial situation in the Torrance district "is the community's problem as much as it is ours," at a meeting of the Torrance Education Advisory Committee Monday.

Dr. Hull was speaking about the proposed override tax in response to a question raised during a panel discussion on the duties of the assistant superintendents for the district.

S. E. WALDRIP, assistant superintendent for business, said that the choice is up to the people, but that it is limited to higher taxes of cutting programs. Waldrip added, "School costs can not be separated from the rest of the economy, and costs are rising."

Waldrip joined three other assistant superintendents in explaining their roles in the district. Included in the panel were Dr. Robert Morton, personnel; Dr. Louis Kaplan, special services; and Dr. Albert Posner, educational services.

Instrumental music teachers for the district provided music for the luncheon, and Waldrip gave a brief report on new construction in the district.

The Torrance Education Advisory Committee is made up of representatives of industrial and business firms, service clubs, and parent-teacher associations. The group meets monthly during the school year to hear progress reports and discuss their role in furthering the goals of the school district.
