

PV State Remains in Inglewood

Dr. Leo F. Cain, president of the California State College at Palos Verdes, issued an explanation of the current office locations for the college after several organizations indicated they had difficulty in locating them.

Dr. Cain said that both planning staff and administrative staff members are located in Inglewood in offices of the California State College, 2930 W. Imperial Hwy. The office will remain at the Inglewood location until June, 1964. A new location may be sought after June, reports Dr. Cain.

At the same time, the president announced that persons or organizations wishing to contribute to student loan funds, scholarships, or to library holdings, should write to California State College at Palos Verdes, or telephone his office at 757-2181.

"Community support has been generous," added Dr. Cain. He said the college official will be happy to receive or discuss any assistance organizations in the area might like to give on behalf of the college's future students.

Hahn Urges NASA Put Research Center Here

Establishment of a large electronics research center of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in Los Angeles County was strongly urged this week by Supervisor Kenneth Hahn.

NASA recently appointed a five-man committee to study possible sites for the center and make a recommendation to Congress next Jan. 31.

"Los Angeles County is ideal for this center because of its favorable climate, world-famous universities and educational institutions, and its large engineering labor force," Hahn said.

"Thirty per cent of the electronic brains of the nation are in the Los Angeles area," Hahn added.

ON HIS MOTION, the Board of Supervisors directed a letter to James E. Webb, NASA Administrator, offering the full cooperation of local officials in studying the site.

Hahn cited the proximity of the Los Angeles area to the Pacific Missile Range and the fact that this area is the hub of aerospace research and development for the nation.

NASA points out the electronics research facility is necessary in the light of the growth and specialization of the field of space electronics. The center would be assigned supervision of all Federal Government electronics contracts with private companies.

Chapel Asks Action on Resolutions

Two resolutions on state financing of schools which the Torrance Board of Education adopted in October have been sent to Governor Edmund G. "Pat" Brown.

The resolutions, calling for legislation to bring the ratio of state to local funds back to a 50-50 balance and for state monies for mandated programs, were forwarded to the governor by Charles E. Chapel, assemblyman from the 46th district, with a request that the measures be placed on the agenda for a special session of the legislature.

Chapel asked that a special session be called concurrent with the budget session next year to consider the two resolutions.

The same resolutions have been adopted by the Redlands Unified School District, and Beverly Hills trustees have expressed a desire to support them.

Both resolutions called for a state-wide initiative to bring the question of school financing before the voters. They were adopted by the Torrance board on motion of President Bert M. Lynn, and will be brought before the California School Boards Assn. at its convention in San Francisco next month.

The Old Timer

"If you stop praising a woman, she thinks you don't love her anymore; keep it up and she'll eventually think she's too good for you."

OFFICIALS estimate as many as 5,000 persons would be employed at the research center, costing $50 million to build and equip.

Hahn noted Los Angeles is one of the key areas being considered by the NASA committee. Others include Chicago, New York, Newark, San Francisco, Minneapolis, and St. Paul.

Although originally slated for construction in the Boston area, Congressional objections prompted reopening of the site selection.

An allocation of $3.9 million has been authorized for initial work on the center once a site has been selected, with an additional $1.1 million for planning.

Serving on the five-man site committee is one Californian, Dr. G. Allan Smith of the Ames Research Center in Mountain View.

Problems of Teens Advent Series Theme

An advent mission for teenagers will be conducted, under the sponsorship of the Catholic Youth Organization, at St. Catherine Labourer Church, 3846 Redondo Beach Blvd., Dec. 1, 2 and 3, according to the Rev. Raymond Tepe, pastor.

All parishes in the area surrounding Torrance are invited to participate, including Gardena, Hawthorne, Inglewood, Lawndale, El Segundo, Manhattan Beach and Redondo Beach.

The mission will be conducted by the Rev. Edward Soto, assistant at Ascension Church, Los Angeles. It will begin at 7:30 each evening, last one hour and will include a question and answer period.

Subjects will cover teenage problems, vocation, confession, dating, courtship and marriage. While designed principally for public high school students, the mission will be open also to all teenagers, non-Catholic as well as Catholic.

Members of the Torrance Stamp Club will meet Monday evening at the Community Building in Scott Park, 23410 Catskill Ave.

Monte McCaslin, president of the club, has announced the program will include a stamp auction.

The meeting will begin at 7:30, and refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the program.
