Ink Spots

Return to Peninsula

Winning a whole new generation of fans with such vocal classics as "If I Didn't Care," the world famed Ink Spots have moved into Marineland Restaurant in Palos Verdes for a six-week engagement, announces owner George M. Foster.

The close-harmony group, led by Charlie Owens, already enjoy a formidable following in the dining establishment's "Porpoise Room," having unwrapped their musical talents here on three previous engagements.

They are renowned for their mellow ballads and hauntingly nostalgic singing style.

IN THEIR current appearance, which continues through June 9, their distinctive sounds are superbly blended and richly toned.

Featuring songs that vibrate in the memory and touch the heart, the Ink Spots are renowned for their "talking choruses," a style that is virtually a trade-mark of the vocal artists.

Their honey-sweet singing
