At formal installation ritual, Mrs. Laura M. Duport accepted the gavel from Mrs. Gust Sundquist, district deputy and installing officer for Court Our Lady of Victory, Catholic Daughters. Assisting Mrs. Sundquist was Mrs. H. Lee Burks, installing monitor from Court Our Lady of the Sacred Heart.

Also seated for the coming year, in the candlelight ceremony and attired in white gowns and colorful robes of their office were:

Mrs. Duport presented Mrs. Richard Wurm, Jr., outgoing grand regent, with the traditional past grand regent's pin from the Court and a personalized scrapbook, "You Were There," compiled by Mrs. Roger Ste. Marie. From her board Mrs. Wurm received a magnificent carving of Da Vinci's "Last Supper."

Tea table appointments were in variegated shades of pink and past grand regents of the Court assisted at the tables.

Stationed near a blush pink rose entwined lattice background for a religious shrine, in evidence at all CDA functions, Mrs. Duport received guests and presented each with an appropriately inscribed memento of the occasion.

Ann Landers

Whenever I tell him I don't want to see him any more he begins to bawl. He says if I drop him he will sell his car, quit his job, and become a bum. He talks about joining the foreign legion or getting on a freighter—or maybe just killing himself. I doubt that he'd go THAT far but I could never be sure.

Yesterday my boss asked me to work late and finish some reports so he could take them out of town. I had to call my boy friend and cancel our dinner date. He began to cry on the phone and it took me 20 minutes to get him off.

I want to get rid of him permanently but he won't let me. Can you help?—CHAINED

Dear Chained: Translated into honest English your problem reads something like this: "I'd like to dump this guy but there's no one else in sight and I don't want to sit around alone night after night. He's a bore, but he's better than nothing."

What this fellow needs is professional help. And what you need is the courage to face some lonely evenings until you can replace the cry-baby with someone more stable.

Confidential to OUT OF STEP: Nonsense. This is nothing to be worried about. The great philosopher Thoreau said, "If a man does not keep pace with his fellows perhaps it is because he hears a different drummer."

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. (C) 1963, Field Enterprises, Inc.

Answers to key questions about the investor-owned electric utility industry and the all-electric future

WHAT'S IN THE ATOM FOR ME? Plenty. The mighty atom is one of today's most promising sources of the low-cost power that will make your future brighter, better, safer, more productive and much more pleasant.

WHO WAS FIRST? Edison was the first electric company in America to produce electricity commercially with atomic power from a non-military reactor.

It might surprise you to know that since way back in 1957 Edison has actually been producing power with the help of the atom at its Santa Susana experimental generating plant!

The investor-owned electric companies like Edison have been moving steadily ahead with plans and plants to produce electricity with the help of nuclear fission.

This map shows the location of 25 atomic power projects involving 125 of the nation's investor-owned electric companies.

WHY IS EDISON CONCENTRATING ON THE ATOM? The main reason Edison and other investor-owned electric companies are so interested in the atom is that it holds the promise of almost limitless low-cost electric power.

Another reason for concentrating on the little atom is this: While America has abundant supplies of fossil fuels now (coal, oil, gas) to use in electric generating plants, these fuels are not inexhaustible, and eventually will have to be replaced.

HOW WELL HAS THE INDUSTRY KEPT DOWN ELECTRICITY COSTS?

Through increased efficiencies, and the wide acceptance of electric living, the electric utility companies have been able to keep the cost of electricity trending downward! The chart above shows the average (national) price per kilowatt-hour of electricity for residential customers from 1913 to 1960.

Here in Southern California, the record has been outstanding. The average cost of a kilowatt-hour of electricity to Edison residential customers is 26% lower today than it was in 1939.

Atomic Power: just plug it in

The recent big news of Southern California Edison's plans for an $82 million atomic power plant at Camp Pendleton (see above) seemed to bring the all-electric future a giant step closer. Early in 1967 several hundred thousand Edison customers in the Southland will be "plugged in" on low-cost atom-produced electricity. It's yet another important gain in the continuing drive of the investor-owned electric companies to keep well ahead of America's needs for abundant power at the lowest possible cost.
