I am 14 and my sister Janice is 16. It all started in September when my sister Janice went into the 10th grade. My mother bought her loads of pretty clothes because she said it was important for Janice to look just right. I didn't get anything new. I got some of Janice's worn skirts and blouses — only because Janet's clothes closet was crowded, and she had to make room for the new things.
Mom drives Janice everywhere she wants to go. When I ask Mom to drive me someplace she tells me to stay home and do my school work. I would leave home if I knew where to go. Please tell me what to do. — BORN TOO LATE

Dear Born: It's always painful to feel that a parent is favoring a brother or a sister over you. Every child who ever grew up with a brother or sister has had this feeling at one time or another.
Try to be pleasant and uncomplaining. Fourteen is a horrible age for a girl who has a sister. The world will look brighter when you are 16 and she is 18.

Confidential to CLOSED MIND: Not only closed but nailed shut, my friend, I suggest you open it occasionally. Something of value may drop in.

What's doing?

During 1964, Pacific Telephone's construction program in California will be the biggest in the company's history, amounting to $419 million. This money will help to create thousands of jobs, not only in the telephone industry but in construction and manufacturing, and among the thousands of suppliers we do business with in hundreds of communities throughout the state. Our $419 million program is a big factor in the state's economy—and another way we're making sure that telephone service is keeping up with California's growth.

Interesting fact: During a three-minute long distance call, you can say all the words in an average two page letter. For example, if you talk slowly, you'll say about 450 words. When you talk a "blue streak," the number of words zooms to about 750. In comparison, Lincoln used 267 words in his Gettysburg Address. If spoken over the phone, it'd be well within a three-minute period. So, fast or slow, you can say a lot for very little when you call long distance.

Here's something you might want to keep in mind. When you need help in an emergency, our Operator is as near as your telephone and ready to help—anytime.

Nowadays, coin telephones come in several styles such as our new walk-up type shown at left with telephone man Dave Finch. In addition, some California cities and towns have drive-up phones you can use to make a call without getting out of your car. These, plus the familiar indoor and outdoor coin phones make up the more than 104,000 now in use throughout the state. This helps make sure that you'll always have a telephone handy, whenever you're away from home. We have an example of this installation in front of our Torrance business office, 1154 Torrance Blvd.
