"Pop Art" is the newest conscoff — go and see it in per-son — then scoff!

The critics have had a field day panning the artists who paint enlarged comic strips, cans of Campbell's soup or just paint a relpica of a sign and call it "Art"!

The big names (or the first ones to capitalize on it) such as Roy Lichtenstein, Jasper Johns, and George Segal have important reasons to deviate from and change current con-cepts of accepted adherence to principals of art principals of art.

WHAT IS POP ART? It is a revolution—a rebellion against present day civilization—which often revolts some of us. Sheer expression seems not to be the main concern of the Pop artist.

Abstract Expressionism could be the source of this new art-source in that perhaps many artists have tired of the introspective and very personal attitude of the abstract paint-
