Torrance Industries Win Top Area Safety Awards

Two Torrance industrial plants were named award winners in the 15th annual business and industry safety contest sponsored by the Greater Los Angeles Chapter of National Safety Council Thursday evening.

The senior sweepstakes award was presented to the Torrance Works of the United States Steel Corporation, and the Torrance Works of the United States Gypsum Co. won the junior sweepstakes trophy.

Trophies were presented at a dinner honoring the firms Thursday evening. More than 1,000 business and industrial leaders from the Los Angeles area attended the awards ceremonies.

WILLIAM G. DAVIS, general superintendent of the Torrance steel works, accepted the senior trophy. Works Manager John Ebbinghouse accepted the award for the U. S. Gypsum Co.

Employees of U. S. Steel established a record of 1,265 days without a disabling injury. The record dates back to Oct. 14, 1960 and involves more than 4,125,000 man-hours of work.

The steel works dates back to 1912 when the original site was acquired by Llewellyn

Llewellyn, the oldest of five brothers who established the Llewellyn Iron Works. The plant occupies a 164-acre site, near downtown Torrance.

THE U.S. GYPSUM plant record involves some 720,000 man hours over a period of 1,750 days without a disabling accident. The award, made in the small and medium plants division, cited the plant for its record and its safety program.

U. S. Gypsum company acquired the plant in 1959. Prior to that, it was operated by American Rock Wool Corp. Located across the street from the U.S. Steel facility, the plant first began production in Torrance in 1946.

Semi-Finalists Listed For State Scholarships

Twenty-nine seniors in the city's four high schools have been named semi-finalists in the State Scholarship Commission competition. The semi-finalist rating is based on scores from the Scholastic Aptitude Test.

All semi-finalists will receive letters of commendation for their achievement, according to the state commission.

Other semi-finalists are:

O'Shea With Allstate

John E. O'Shea, of 22630 Leyte Drive, has been appointed sale representative for the Allstate Insurance Companies, according to C. J. Weiss, assistant vice president and regional manager. O'Shea will work from the sales office in the Sears store in Inglewood.

CalProp 'Marquis' Has Design of 'Americana'

"The Marquis," 48 unit apartment building in Hawthorne developed by CalProp Investments, Inc. is patterned after the company's 86-unit, award winning "Americana" in Torrance, according to Victor Zaccagnin, president.

Featuring completely furnished singles and one-bedroom units, the two-story building is located on Inglewood Avenue at El Segundo Boulevard across from the Hawthorne High School campus. The new structure is within a quarter of a mile from the San Diego Freeway.

"The Marquis" is contemporary in design and follows a country-club theme emphasizing recreation and relaxation. Facilities include a large heated swimming pool, putting green, and circular-designed recreation room.

Coyle Named As Sales Supervisor

Martin T. Coyle of 2422 W. 180th Place, has joined Life Insurance Company of North America as a sales supervisor. In addition to servicing present accounts, he will work with independent agents in the Los Angeles area developing new life and health sales.

Units are serviced by a central hi-fi system and all apartments are appointed with custom features including large mirrors, marble topped pullmans, ceramic tile counters, and popular brand appliances. Utility services are provided without cost to tenants.

Baldwin Hills Film Available To Area Clubs

"Nightmare in the Sun," a 10-minute film of the Baldwin Hills disaster has been released by the Red Cross for use by clubs and organizations throughout the Los Angeles area, according to Mrs. Mary Pagac, Torrance-Lomita branch Red Cross chairman.

Narrated by George Putnam, TV newsman, the film combines film clips taken by KNBC and KTTV news departments with Red Cross sequences.

Arrangements for the film, which dramatizes the importance of Red Cross volunteer assistance when disaster strikes, may be made by calling TE 2-8321.

'Neighbor' Crusade on Cancer Due

The "Tell Your Neighbor" cancer crusade will begin Friday and continue through April 13, according to Mrs. Arthur Colgan, district residential crusade chairman for the Centinela Valley-South Bay Office of the American Cancer Society.

"Hundreds of local volunteers will distribute a special question-and-answer leaflet to the householder upon whom she calls," Mrs. Colgan stated.

"The 'Tell Your Neighbor' idea dramatizes the life saving role of the American Cancer Society volunteer," she continued. The pamphlets distributed will include answers to questions commonly asked about cancer with a list of the disease's early warning signs.

City Has Four Job Openings

Four positions with the city of Torrance are open. They are duplicating equipment operator, public works inspector, license director and planning associate.

Persons interested may write or telephone the personnel office at the city hall, 3031 Torrance Blvd. Final filing deadline for the position of duplicating equipment operator is April 15 and April 22 is the deadline for the jobs of public works inspector and license director.

May 6 is the deadline for filing for the planning associate position.

Youth Wins Prize

Robbie German, of 1027 Felbar, was a prize winner on KHL-TV's program, "The Pancake Man." Youngsters win prizes daily on the show, with a bicycle given away every Friday as the grand prize.

I am not afraid of tomorrow, for I have seen yesterday and I love today.—William Allen White.

COUNT MARCO SAYS

Two-Ton Tilly Brings 'Ugh!'

I saw the left out side of a triangle last night. Mon Dieu! No wonder her husband makes the town rounds with a different woman every opportunity he gets.

The tragedy of it is that undoubtedly when he first married her she was as striking as some of the women with whom I see him engaging in unmarried activities. At least she appeared to have some left-over potential.

There was no doubt that she was his wife, because no lover would sit publicly at a table with her and those two misbehaved, ill-bred little brats unless he were chained to them through some sort of legality.

There she slouched at the restaurant table, a real Two-Ton Tilly, wearing stretch pants that were never created to go that far beyond believability or practicality.

The rest of her bulk was housed in a fuzzy, tent-like sweater. Her unkempt, stringy hair added to the nauseous picture. Only the children were heard throughout the dinner.

I could tell from my vantage point that his mind was miles and miles away, probably thinking about the cute thing he had lined up for his next visit to the city.

In a way I had to feel sorry for her. She is undoubtedly one of those forgotten wives who began at an early stage to feel insecure, so she let herself go to the dogs.

I wondered how he could possibly be seen in public with the likes of her. Then I realized it must be penance to make up for his cheating away from home.

If you feel the slightest twinge of insecurity don't let yourself go. Work all the harder. Letting yourself spread into a blob of nothingness won't keep him at home. He may feel sorry for you, but he's not going to go down the drain with you.

Keep yourself neat, clean and attractive to fight the battle. The more insecure you feel, the harder you should work at being beautiful and desirable. After all, if he found you that way once, you can do it again.

If you give up you're only lazy. Don't blame him. Straighten up, clean up, and win him back. You do want him, don't you?
