YOUR PROBLEMS

by Ann Landers

'Feed-Bag Date Once a Week O.K.'

Dear Ann Landers: Call me Tom. I am a high school junior with big ideas and a small allowance. The girl I like best has an appetite like a horse. She can eat two of everything.

We have a real date either Friday or Saturday night and $3 doesn't last any time at all. During the week when we walk home from school together she always wants to stop some place for a snack. I can't afford it.

I like this girl a lot but she is eating herself out of my life. Please don't tell me to suggest that she should watch her weight because she is skinny and is trying to put on 10 pounds.

Would it be all right if I came right out and told her how I feel? Or should I pay up and shut up?—TOM

Dear Tom: Tell that vacuum cleaner with teeth that you can't afford her appetite. A feed-bag date once a week is O.K., but a healthy young girl should be able to make it home from school without stepping on the way home for nourishment. If not, suggest she carry two lunches.

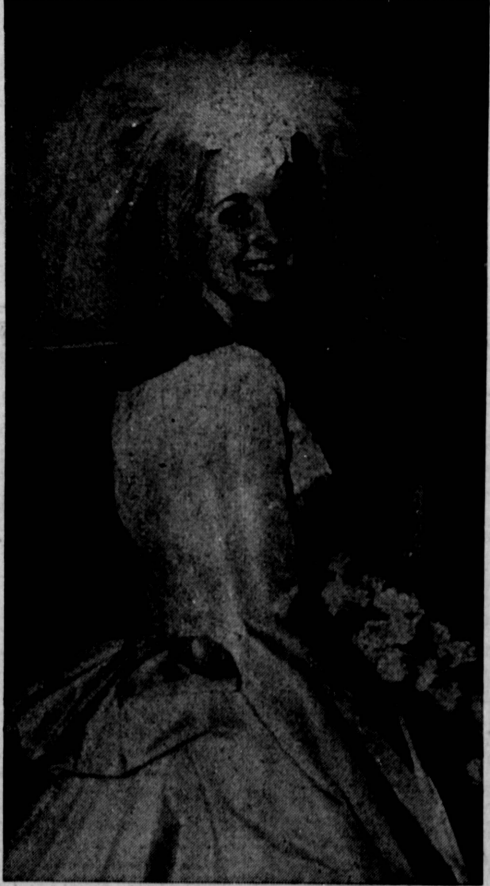

Dear Ann Landers: I have an old school chum I have known for over 25 years. Whenever we are with friends she manages to steer the conversation to things I said and did when we were teenagers—nearly 40 years ago.

Back in those days I had no idea she thought I was so empty-headed and silly. Now it seems every word I said was stupid and everything I did was hilarious. She never misses an opportunity to embarrass me with tales that make me out to have been the village idiot. She's been doing this for about 20 years and I am sick of it.

Through the years this woman has had much trouble and sorrow. My husband and I have been at her side through all her tribulations. I can think of no reason for her to want to humiliate me.

I would like to put an end to it once and for all without losing her friendship. How?—OLD FRIEND OR FOE?

Dear ? : What's the matter with you—no vocal cords? Tell this woman precisely how you feel in language (Continued on Page 10)
