on in the various branches of city government.

What do you feel you can contribute toward the solution of this problem?
I feel that I can offer the citizens of this community the experience and knowledge I have gained from the study and practice of law. The Torrance City Council needs individuals on it who have studied government and are aware of the operations of a city government. I can also offer to the community the experience I have gained from many years of active participation in politics. Finally, I can offer the community the benefit of good relations on my part with top political leaders of our State in Sacramento and elsewhere.

NAT P. MONDATTI
... 3125 Sonoma Street, resident of Torrance 20 years, education El Camino College and Pepperdine College; occupation businessman; youth activities, Little League Baseball.

What is the most important problem facing the Torrance City Council?
The constant rise in our property taxes.

What do you feel you can contribute toward the solution of this problem?
To endeavor to adopt a realistic and sound program regarding use of our limited land. A glaring factor is the preferential rezoning of industrial lands to residential. What happens when large numbers of new dwellings are built? Result: more families, more children, more schools, more teachers, more taxes to meet increases in services demanded of city and schools. To keep our tax base from getting completely out of hand, a moratorium should be placed on all unrealistic zone changes.

IVAN W. MOORE
... 22624 Leyte Drive; resident of Torrance 10 1/2 years; high school education; occupation, Toolmaker.

What is the most important problem facing the Torrance City Council?
(1) Where to hold the line on residential zoning so that more area can be zoned for the higher tax producing industrial areas which also require far less expensive service. (2) How to resolve the inner turmoil, now existing in our city government in a manner satisfactory and in the best interests of our citizens. It seems that some force is splitting all departments into opposing factions.

What do you feel you can contribute toward the solution of this problem?
(1) Proper presentation of zoning problems tax-wise, to the City Council, with accurate facts and figures in support of industrial zoning, should win the Council's vote if we elect realistic Councilmen. (2) Assuming that there is a wrong and right side to every problem, one would first need to pierce the existing veil of secrecy, then attempt to pick the right side and affect a resolution, get a second and vote the problem out of existence, which again depends on the integrity of the Councilmen that we elect.

JOHN F. MULVIHILL
... 3765 West 171st Street; resident of Torrance 12 years; attended DePaul University; occupation Wage and Salary Specialist; Torrance Planning Commission 1953-56; one term as Torrance representative on InterCity Highway Committee; 2 years as president of North Torrance Civic Improvement Association; president of Parent-Faculty organization at Montgomery High.

What is the most important problem facing the Torrance City Council?
Corruption and the lack of straightforward leadership by the existing City Council ranks as the most important problem of Torrance. The political division resulting in split 4 to 3 votes on most major issues shows total disregard for the welfare of Torrance residents and absolute obedience to political infighting and bickering. Release of the Attorney General's report on Torrance City government, I believe, would show clearly just how bad the situation is. We must not forget that the new City Council will appoint the new police chief, the new city manager, and the new fire chief.

What do you feel you can contribute toward the solution of this problem?
I would return city government to the voters. I would press for a full financial disclosure law covering all councilmen, a citizens advisory police commission, and councilmanic districts. These three factors would force the City Council to operate in a "fish bowl" where all acts and decisions would be open to public scrutiny. From my experience on the Torrance Planning Commission when Torrance was named All-American City, I know that we have the talents and abilities to solve the myriad of modern-day government problems—but we can't solve them with horse and buggy 19th century political infighting.

TED OLSON
... 3217 Antonio Street, resident of Torrance 3 1/2 years, 8 years South Bay area; education B. S. Psychology, Ohio University, 2 years Graduate School in Management, Ohio University; occupation Industrial Relations Division Head, Union Carbide, Torrance plant; Boy Scouts—South Bay District Activities Chairman; YMCA—Building Campaign, Special Gifts Chairman; 1st Vice President Torrance Kiwanis Club; Torrance Chamber of Commerce Co-Chairman Contact Committee; Torrance Elks Club; Planning Commissioner City of Torrance, Treasurer Personnel, Industrial Relations Managers Association, District VI.

What is the most important problem facing the Torrance City Council?
The need to provide effective leadership of demonstrated capability to efficiently direct the numerous complex problems of a large growing city. The variety and scope of all of these problems are related to explosive growth for a city in excess of 122,000 citizens and deserve to be decided on the basis of fact, not prejudice, bias or whim.

What do you feel you can contribute toward the solution of this problem?
By training, education, and experience I feel that I have the knowledge and capability to (1) Identify basic objectives and problems; (2) Make judgments and decisions independently on the basis of fact and merit in the best interest of all 122,000 citizens; (3) Conduct the affairs of the City in a businesslike manner; (4) Aggressively and logically attack and resolve the paramount problems existing today; namely taxes, corruption, community planning and zoning; and (5) Restore confidence of the citizens in their municipal government.

What is the most important problem facing the Torrance City Council?
(a) Disunity in the city administration, (b) Discontentment amongst city employees, (c) Public distrust, (d) Published and reported scandals of city officials, (e) constant successful efforts of a few to use the people and city government for self interest only, completely ignoring the best interest of all, (f) Loss of all-American City status, (g) Potential loss of property values contrary to the will of the people.

What do you feel you can contribute toward the solution of this problem?
(a) Develop and promote good leadership in city administration and maintain a close relationship thereto, (b) eliminate self interest and act in the best interest of all, (c) Guard and protect jealously all property and personal rights, (d) Develop and maintain dignified good and proper relationship between labor, management and city officials, (e) Cooperate with all agencies to prevent the infiltration of organized crime in any shape, form or magnitude, (f) Fully support all programs designed to benefit the youth of this city, (g) To promote and support all programs designed to bring dignity and honor to Torrance, (h) To fully support all religious, charitable and public service institutions whose purpose is to foster the health, safety and welfare of people of Torrance.
