YOUR PROBLEMS
by Ann Landers

'Advise Her, Ignore Pressure . . .'

Dear Ann Landers: My sister's husband was a salesman. Artie knew all kinds of people.

A few days ago Artie dropped dead of a heart attack. The funeral was yesterday. After the funeral several people came by the house to be with my sister and sit around the way they do when a friend passes away.

Two men whom my sister had never seen before took her aside and told her that they had loaned Artie money. One man said he had borrowed $400 when he had gotten over his head in a crap game. The other fellow said he still had $300 coming from the second Liston-Patterson fight.

My sister was bewildered. She knew very little about her husband's gambling and betting practices. She had never seen these men before and they had nothing in writing. At the moment she's plenty short of cash, but she says if Artie owed the money she wants to pay it. What is your advice?—TRYING TO HELP

Dear Trying: The timing of these birds is interesting.

Since they have nothing in writing—and she never saw them before—I'd advise her to ignore the pressure.

Dear Ann Landers: Our 15-year-old daughter complains that we never let her use her own judgment or make her own decisions. She put on a great big sell, pointing out that she must learn from experience how to handle money and be independent.

We agreed to give her $400 on her 15th birthday which was exactly 60 days ago. She was to buy her own clothes, lunches, do whatever she wanted with the money, and six months later she was to get another $400.

Last night she asked for the second $400 now because she doesn't have a dime to her name. I wasn't surprised because I saw the foolish things she did during the first week of the "Plan For Independence." She paid $10 for a set of mink eye-lashes and $49.50 for a pair of satin lounging pajamas.

Should we give her another chance? She says she has learned her lesson and that this next $400 will last six months for sure. Yes or no?—UNDECIDED

Dear Un: If you give this 15-year-old numbskull another $400 you are out of your minds for sure.
