

YOUR PROBLEMS

by Ann Landers

'The Dame Is Lonely . . .'

Dear Ann Landers: I am the manager of a luxury apartment building in a large metropolitan city. For years I have read your column for kicks — never dreaming I would one day be writing for serious advice.

A prominent, well-to-do widow who lives in the building is driving the maintenance men buggy. Since January 1st she has put in 62 service requests. Her requests involve everything from the replacement of a light bulb (which she says she can't reach) to a leaky faucet or a loose doorknob.

When the men get up there they can't get out. She has the table set for two and insists they sit down and have a cup of coffee and a piece of her delicious apple strudel.

Yesterday the electrician told me he is positive the woman disconnects and unscrews things so she'll have an excuse to call somebody up to her apartment.

Will you please tell me what to do about this tenant? She has three years to go on her lease.—EXASPERATION PLUS

Dear Ex: The dame is lonely. But you can't continue to send workmen up there just to keep her company.

Tell the woman she is entitled to a specified number of service calls per week and after she has used her quota she'll have to hire outside people.

Dear Ann Landers: I was touched by the letter signed "His Kids." Those teen-agers were worried about their father because he smoked heavily. His battle cry was, "I've been smoking for 25 years. The damage is done and quitting now won't do any good."

That same edition of our newspaper carried a truly encouraging story. The headline read "Quit Smoking and Lungs Will Be 'Pure' Again."

The article reported on a meeting of the Kent County (Michigan) Unit of the American Cancer Society and Kent County Medical Society.

A chest surgeon said, "Those dirty, black, tar-filled lungs may be restored to a state of pink purity in from three weeks to three years after the smoker quits, depending on how long and how much he smoked."

This is the most heartening news I have read on the subject yet. I hope you will print it and offer hope and encouragement to all those who refuse to give up smoking because they believe it's too late for them. Thank you.—MRS. G. J.

Dear Mrs. G. J.: Approximately 50 million pairs of eyes will see those words be-
