Science Fair Set At North

Exhibits sponsored by more than 40 Torrance industrial firms and award-winning student science projects will highlight the eighth annual Torrance Schools Science Fair, to be held at North High Friday, May 1.

In addition to the graphic displays of industrial concerns and student demonstrations, a number of lectures and demonstrations by students and research workers have been included on the program.

The program will be open to the public from 6 to 9 p.m., according to Richard Guengrich, principal of North High. The school is located at 3629 W. 182nd St.

STUDENT exhibits will include those which have previously won awards at local school science fairs. Fifteen projects have been submitted from each of the Torrance high schools, and each elementary school will select three science projects to enter in the fair.

The student projects will be judged and awards given on the basis of 10 areas. Three awards will be given in each area.

Walter Hillier, head of the North High Science Department, said the 150 projects were selected from more than 3,000 entered in local competition. Hillier is in charge of this year's fair.

ALL WINNERS will be invited to North High during the day to participate in the program.

North High students will attend classes on a special schedule during the fair so each student may attend four lectures and a movie of his choice. More than 50 lectures and film demonstrations will be available at the fair.

Girls Get Ready for Cotton Day

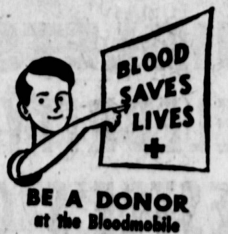

"He loves me, he loves me not" will have a special meaning to many Carson girls from now until May 1.

But far from plucking daisy petals, the girls will be busily sewing hems and putting final touches on New Spring outfits for Carson's annual "Cotton Day" and "Cotton Ball" which will have "He loves me . . ." as its theme.

At a special assembly the young seamstresses will model their creations and be judged on originality of dress, suitability for school, fit of dress, and grooming and posture.

At the dance that night the event will come to a climactic end with the crowning of a queen and four princesses.

The dance is sponsored by the Girl's League and the price of admittance is $1.50.
