

YOUR PROBLEMS
by Ann Landers

'You've Told Me, That's Enough . . .'

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like your advice on what to do about my aunt. She telephoned this morning just to chat. To be polite I asked her what she was doing today. She replied, "I am going downtown to do some Christmas shopping." Then she explained.

Auntie watches for bargains all through the year and picks them up for Christmas gifts. By August she has all her Christmas shopping done. This explains why her gifts are always faded, torn, dried out and shopworn.

This tightwad has more money than all the rest of the family put together. Her husband was in World War I and she still has his Liberty Bonds. I am so infuriated by her cheapness I could pop a blood vessel. Should I tell her how I feel and get it off my chest?—BURNED TO CINDERS

Dear Cinders: No. You've told me. That's enough. Now forget it.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a teen-ager who will soon be bald if I don't do something about a terrible habit I've had since the sixth grade. Without realizing it I've been pulling out my hair. During study period when I should be concentrating I pull my hair out. When I get upset about something it is worse than ever. I wake up in the morning with hair on the pillow, so you see I pull my hair out even when I sleep. I've tried awfully hard to control myself but it's hopeless. Please tell me if you have ever heard of this before. Also, what can I do about it? Thanks a million.—PROBLEMS PROBLEMS

Dear Problems: This habit is in the same category with stuttering and nail-biting. . . and it is not uncommon.

The guidance counselor at school should invite your mother in for a visit. Together they can decide on a course of action. You will stop pulling your hair out when you settle down emotionally and resolve the problems which are tormenting you.

Dear Ann Landers: I have been going with a beautiful girl from a small town downtown. I'll call her Faye. Last night we talked about many things. I asked her if she would mind telling me everything about her past romances. She was reluctant at first and then poured out a story that left me so weak I almost blacked out.

Faye went steady with a fellow during her senior year in high school and they were intimate for eight months. She said she thought she was in love with him and felt sure they would marry. It was as if someone had stuck a dagger through my heart. Faye says he was the only one, but now I wonder. If she could have fooled me so completely, what might she do after I married her?

I love this girl but I don't trust her anymore. Do you think I will ever get over this?—DART

Dear Dart: No, I don't. In fact, the way your mind is working you'll probably have her pictured as the town tramp within a week.

Loving is confidence, understanding and forgiving. You'd better find yourself a 100 per cent pure maiden. A fellow with your attitude would forever remind a wife who had made an early mistake that she was "damaged goods."

Ann Landers' frank and informative new book, "Teen-Agers and Sex" ($2.95), is now available at your book store.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Kathleen Branch Recites Vows with Delbert Cook

Miss Kathleen Marie Branch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry L. Branch, 20812 Brighton Ave., Torrance, became the bride of Delbert Gene Cook in a ten o'clock ceremony at Nativity Catholic Church on Saturday, April 11. The bridegroom, who is serving with the United States Navy stationed aboard the USS Higbee in Long Beach, is the son of Mrs. Blanch Guerrero of Peoria, Ill. and the late Carroll Cook.

On the arm of her father, the bride came to the altar wearing a gown of Chantilly lace over satin. Her headpiece, flower petals of lace studded with pearls, secured the bouffant tulle veil. The bridal bouquet was of white miniature roses and stephanotis.

Miss Priscilla Baca was the maid of honor and Miss Lupe Garcia was bridesmaid. Their gowns were of pale blue taffeta and each carried a colonial bouquet of yellow gladiolus.

Louie Baca was best man and ushers were Royce Branch, Christian Garcia and Spencer Waldo. Alex Branch carried the rings.

Rev. William O'Toole officiated at the marriage as a background of nuptial music was furnished by Roman Maciejewski.

A reception for the 150 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents where Mrs. Liana Buchanan registered the guests.

The newlyweds spent a honeymoon at San Juan Capistrano. Their new address is 907 N. Edgemont St., Los Angeles.

The bride was graduated from Gardena High School and is now attending Los Angeles City College where she is studying to be a dental assistant. She is vice president of Alethians and recording secretary of Epsilon Delta, dental assistant sorority.

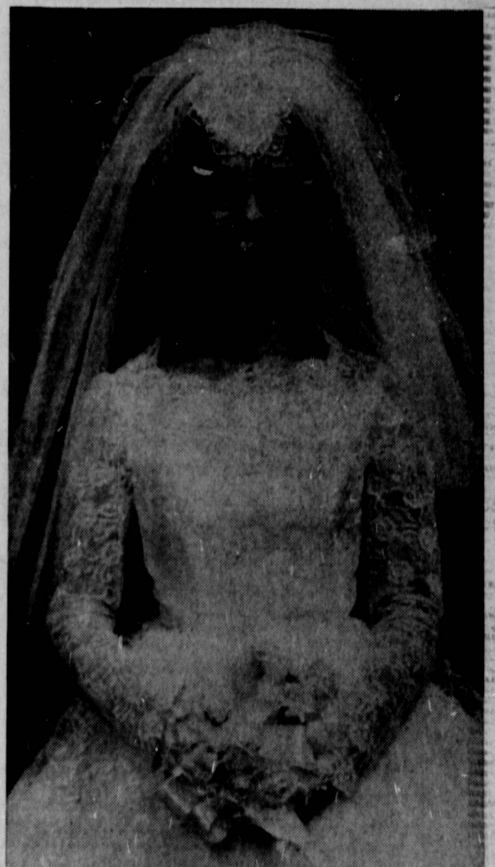

Her husband was educated in Illinois and in 1962 was given the "White Hat" award by the Long Beach Businessmen's Assn. In June, the bridegroom will leave for Japan on a two year assignment. His bride will join him after her graduation.
