Balboa may be a long ways from Torrance, but any true art-loving person should make the effort to see the show that's on now at the Pavilion Gallery there.

The fine art patrons of Newport Harbor have formed an organization that exhibits good art on the second floor of the old pavilion in the center of town—400 Main Street; to be exact.

Until May 24, the "Collectors' Show" will be open to the public—Wednesday through Sunday—from 1 to 5 p.m. All things (paintings, prints, drawings, sculpture) are for sale—at good strong gallery prices.

WILLIE SUZUKI has a large canvas in the show—"Children Playing"—one of his final paintings from the "Children Playing Games Series." He also has a fine drawing of a figure—done in charcoal—with a very sensitive line quality.

Ray Klercu is represented with a large canvas painted at the time when he was teaching at the University of Mississippi—also has a small drawing—again in the theme of social protest against the snails pace that civil rights is moving in this country.

Vic Smith has a drawing, a watercolor and an oil in the show. Smith now teaches at Orange County State College and has really become an important figure in the art world since we were classmates at Long Beach State College.

THE ENTIRE show consists of a number of La Cienega Boulevard Galleries showing the work of their best artists. Some of the work is top notch and some is so-so. I can't say that I really appreciate the wall-size painting—all blue except for three letters in yellow—about 24 inches high—OOF.

There were many Picasso lithographs on display—but so many had already been sold—as had been, all the Picasso plates.

I have two very fine and beautifully framed Picasso lithographs at my gallery in Anaheim—if you like Picasso—you must see them.

PEOPLE ARE funny. They continue to stream into our gallery—many still curious, some really interested, but now and then—a real collector. Some still gasp over the fact that an oil painting could possibly cost over $25.

One nut wanted to photograph some of the paintings so that he could go home and try to copy them. Another soul tried to sell me six of the most atrocious paintings that I have ever seen.

He needed the money and Planning for the Fine Arts Awards Banquet is now in the final stages. The banquet will be held Tuesday in the main cafeteria at 6:30 p.m. The cost will be $1.25. Awards will be given in all categories of the fine arts. Another banquet for the month of May in final planning will be the Athletic Award Banquet.

The highlight of the night will be speaker Jordan Olivar who is coaching at UCLA. All special athletic awards for the year will be handed out at this time and the special recognition also. The night of the banquet will be May 21, in the main cafeteria. Cost will be $1.75.

Player of the week last week was Rick Adams for his fine performance in tennis.

Seniors are now selecting their senior gift for the school. Mr. Larry Macaray has helped us greatly with finding a selection of pictures to choose from. The senior council will vote on them soon.

Senior sweaters are now going on display and the voting will soon take place on the emblem.

Want your car washed? The sophomore class is sponsoring a car wash on May 22. It will be on the parking lot of Torrance High. Cost will be only $1—advance sale only.

Thought for the day when a Torrance High student comes to the door selling candy this next week for the purpose of Drill Team uniforms, don't slam the door—smile and buy lots!

See you next week . . .

would sell them to me at "rock-bottom" prices—but I tried every way I knew how to tell him that I couldn't use them (I really meant that they were terrible)—finally, with an "ego-piercing" statement I said "I wouldn't give you $10 for the whole lot." He got the message.

A COLLECTOR (a Hunts Foods official) came in the other day and selected three paintings on approval—he knew what he wanted and didn't bat an eye at any of the prices—a collector wants good things and is willing to pay.

Yesterday a collector from New York called me about a certain painting that he knew I had. A Walter Dettman seascape from Holland. He bought one from me in 1962 and told me that the president of National Cash Register wants one—so off it goes to Dayton, Ohio.

HERALD readers are special to me—so if you are interested in art or paintings in particular and want any questions answered or information in general—don't hesitate to call me at the gallery, 635-2200. (Area code 714).

Slow Cars: Move Over, Warns CHP

Too many motorists are driving in the fast lanes of freeways at speeds slower than the normal traffic flow, warned California Highway Patrol Commissioner Bradford M. Crittenden this week.

"The situation is better than it was a year ago," he added, "but there is still room for improvement." Crittenden said the Highway Patrol would continue its program of enforcement and education as long as it is necessary.

During 1963, Crittenden said, officers cited 11,054 persons for a violation of the law requiring slow drivers to drive in the far right lane. He said such drivers in faster lanes contribute to rear-end accidents, the most prevalent kind of traffic mishap on the freeway system.

USC Names Local Man As Director

Dr. Richard H. Berg of Torrance has been appointed Director of the Educational Placement Service at the University of Southern California.

Dean Irving R. Melbo of the School of Education said Dr. Berg, now principal of Jefferson School in Lennox, would assume his duties July 1. Dr. Berg succeeds Dr. Paul J. Avery, who is leaving to become superintendent of schools in Winnetka, Ill.

Dr. Berg will also be an assistant professor of education in the field of counseling and guidance.

The new director lives with his wife and four children at 22749 Date Ave.

Gardena High Alumni Plan Annual Dance

The Gardena High School Alumni Assn. will hold its annual Alumni Scholarship Dance at the Elks Hall May 16 at 9 p.m. Music for the dance will be furnished by Al Apodaca and his orchestra.

The annual dance, held to raise funds for the alumni association scholarship, is open to alumni of Gardena High and their friends.

Three active scholarships are maintained by the association at the present time, and officials hope to increase to four the number of scholarships for this year.

Reservations may be made by calling Charles Fowler, 706 W. 158th St., Gardena, 329-9093.

United Cerebral Palsy Assn. supports three pre-school nurseries and three development centers for handicapped children in Los Angeles County, besides an industrial production training workshop for young adults. These programs are maintained through public support.

Youngsters How to Swim Tips Offered

The Red Cross learn-to-swim program is now literally spilling over into the wading pool, and parents are starring as teachers.

The Red Cross offers tips to parents teaching their youngsters the fundamentals of swimming. The first hint is to find a friend to teach at the same time since youngsters tend to learn more quickly with a friend.

Other tips on starting swimming instruction are:

- Get the child accustomed to water with a form of play such as sprinkling water on the head and shoulders to teach him the feel of water.

- Get him to splash water in his own face after he learns what the feel of water on his face is like. This is important since one's face must be in water in order to learn to swim.

- Use a game to get the child to put his face in water. Such a game as having him hold his breath while picking up rubber chips or something similar, and be sure he keeps his face under water with his eyes open.

- Teach him proper breathing by blowing a ball across a wading pool with the mouth and chin in the water.

deep breath and hold his face under water, repeating the step until he can hold his breath for at least 15 or 20 seconds.

- Next, teach him to breathe out through his nose while his head is under water. He will blow bubbles as he does this.

- Now try to get him to bob in the water. Have him breathe in through the mouth, put his face in water and breathe out through his nose. A definite rhythm should develop—two seconds for inhaling and three seconds for exhaling. Practice until the young student can do it continuously for 10 or 15 times.

Now you are ready to teach the floats and strokes that will complete elementary swimming instruction. A Red Cross booklet, "Teaching Johnny to Swim," is available at the local Red Cross office for 20 cents. A film based on the book is available to service groups and other clubs through the Red Cross.

Cerebral palsy is a condition resulting from damage on injury to the brain cells which transmit "orders" to the muscles.
