

Opportunities For Careers in Hospitals Told

"The Hospital and opportunity careers not requiring college study."

This is the program theme of Los Angeles County Harbor General Hospital for National Hospital Week. Now being observed.

Next fall, Harbor General will put the theme into action in a high school-hospital work training plan devised with the Los Angeles City Schools System for the South County and Harbor area.

The plan will be on a "pilot test" basis involving a limited number of students from San Pedro, Banning, Gardena, Carson and Narbonne high schools.

THESE WILL be students not intending to enter college day schools but who are interested in finding work where there are "opportunity careers," according to A. L. Thomas, HGH Administrator.

"We have worked out with the L. A. City Schools System a program which will combine the classroom studies in the schools with time during the school day in our hospital's applicable work areas," Thomas said.

Thomas, hospital staff members, and Louis Kyzivat, Area Work Experience Coordinator, L. A. Schools System, drew up the plan.

IT WAS outlined to approximately 200 students from schools involved during National Hospital Week in two-day conferences with HGH administrative staff members and Kyzivat, Monday and Wednesday mornings.

Students, divided into two groups for one-hour sessions, were briefed on the school-hospital work plan and then taken on a tour of the hospital.

Edward Foley, personnel officer, emceed the program with Administrator Thomas, and Assistant Administrator L. R. Smith, welcoming the students.

FOLEY discussed the career information on opportunities for persons in the non-college required careers such as stenography including medical stenography, clerical, typing, nursing attendant, laundry, dietary, housekeeping, ambulance and truck driving, gardening, stockroom and craft positions.

Kyzivat presented information on the program from the School System's point of view. He explained that the work in the hospital will be alongside experienced employees and credit will be given the students toward graduation.

Where uniforms are required, they will be supplied by the hospital.

However, Foley pointed out, the two-day conferences also included discussions of the "professional opportunities" in the hospital requiring college level preparation.

"These include," he said, "medical, nursing, laboratory technicians, social work, occupational and physical therapies, pharmacy, X-ray, and hospital administration."

arrangements for the affair. Among hosts and hostesses for the evening will be Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. James Shidler, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Liles, and Mrs. Raymond de Waide, all of Torrance.
