

YOUR PROBLEMS
by Ann Landers

'The Bike Was in HER Driveway . . .'

Dear Ann Landers: Our next door neighbors have done so many mean and petty things that we are seriously considering selling our home to get away from them. Here is the latest incident and we want your advice.

Our 11-year-old son left his bicycle in their driveway. Yes, we know he should not have been so careless, but kids will be kids. The neighbor woman pretended not to see the bike and backed her car over it just for spite. The bike is so badly smashed that no shop will attempt to repair it.

Now get this: After the woman wrecked our son's bike she banged on our front door, enraged, because she had been scared out of her wits. She thought at first that she had hit the boy, too.

When my husband told her husband that they owe us a new bike he replied, "You people are crazy."

We know you don't give legal advice, but what we want is common sense advice. Does this woman owe us a new bike?

-NEXT DOOR TO TROUBLE

Dear Trouble: The bike was in her driveway, wasn't it? Well, the answer should be fairly obvious.

To put it another way, let the boy earn at least half the price of a new bike and you can supply the other half. Perhaps he will take better care of a second bike if he has to do something to earn it.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I had a terrific argument. We both said some pretty harsh things to each other which we regretted later. I was so angry with him because he made a remark about my being lazy that I refused to cook his dinner. We have no children and I had eaten several hours earlier.

A close friend of mine told me that no matter how mad a woman gets she has no right to refuse to cook her husband's dinner. According to her, it is the same as if the man refused to go to work. I do not agree with her. May we have your opinion?
