Ad Series Wins Award For Edison

A series of advertisements published in The Herald has won international honors for Southern California Edison Co. in the Public Utilities Assn. "Better Copy Contest" for 1964.

L. E. Jenkins, Edison district manager, said the ads, including one headed "Night Light for a Nervous Dachshund," took second-place honors in the institutional advertising category of the contest.

Edison also won two other awards in the contest, said to be the oldest advertising competition in the world.

A second-place award was given Edison for a color-and-sound motion picture "Tradition and Leadership," a filmed chronicle of recent Edison activities. The firm also won third place for its continuing program of acquiring prospective home buyers with new Medallion home developments.

All junior and senior high students have been invited to attend. A surprise guest speaker will present the program following devotion and talent time.

Levy Heads Drive for Hope Sunday

Torrance businessman Sam Levy has been named as chairman for the "Hope Sunday" drive in Torrance this week. Levy was named to the post by Art Linkletter, Southern California chairman for the one-day drive.

Levy, a resident of Torrance since the city was founded, will head an army of volunteers who will seek public support for the City of Hope.

Founded in 1913, the City of Hope has depended on public support to maintain its pilot program of free patient care, research, and medical education, said Levy.

The modern facility has been a leader in the fight against such diseases as cancer, leukemia, and blood, chest, and heart maladies.

"I am proud to be a part of this important effort," said Levy, "and I urge everyone to respond from the heart when their City of Hope volunteer calls Sunday."
