Fine Arts Professor Appointed

Marshall Bialosky, professor of music and conductor of the University Chorale at the State University of New York at Stony Brook, has been named professor of fine arts and will join the faculty planning staff at the California State College at Palos Verdes. Dr. Leo F. Cain, president of Cal State at Palos Verdes, said the new professor will join the staff in the fall to help plan the college fine arts program.

Professor Bialosky attended Syracuse and Northwestern universities and has participated in composers' conferences at Bennington and Tanglewood. He has studied at the Cherubini Conservatory in Florence, Italy, for two years under a U. S. State Department grant.

His own music works have been performed in a dozen larger cities in the United States and Europe. Six of his compositions have been published.

Bialosky is married and has three children. The family will move to California during the summer.

Edison Co. Asks Rate Reduction

Southern California Edison Co. has filed an application with the state Public Utilities Commission to reduce rates about $7 million annually.

Edison Co. officials said the proposed reduction reflects lower expenses from the recent reductions in federal income taxes. L. E. Jenkins, district manager, said additional parts of the reduction reflect lower rates for natural gas.

The company has proposed the reductions be spread among domestic, general service, agricultural, and street lighting customers, according to Jenkins.

For most of the 1.8 million domestic customers, said Jenkins, it would mean a reduction of about 21 cents in the bi-monthly bills. Edison has asked for the reductions to be placed as of July 1.
