things would come off. To me it was like the unveiling of the Statue of Liberty or the preview of Cleopatra. I thought everyone would notice—especially the boys. I counted on this event to change my whole life. Well, nothing happened. Absolutely nothing. Not one single boy has asked me for a date.

I'm so disappointed I don't know what to do. Can you give me some help please?—BOTTOM OF THE WORLD.

Dear World: You've just learned, first hand, a lesson I've been trying to hammer home for years. It is as follows: Good looks are not the key to popularity.

The girl who is interesting, fun to be with, and can make a boy feel comfortable is going to be sought out—even if she does have a smile like a bird cage. Look around, Tootsie, and you'll see plenty of evidence that I am right.

Go to work on the things that count and watch your life shape up.

HIS THIRD CADILLAC... HIS FIRST NEW ONE

This man is enjoying his first brand-new Cadillac—after becoming acquainted with the car's unsurpassed value by twice buying used Cadillacs.

He learned that a late model used Cadillac gave him more standard equipment and engineering advancements than most new cars.

First of all, while Cadillac's styling was continually refined, it never lost the clean, dignified look that says Cadillac and Cadillac alone. The smooth, quiet performance and complete reliability of his used Cadillac was a constant source of enjoyment. Then, too, he and his family enjoyed luxury and comfort to a degree reserved exclusively for Cadillac owners.

The pride of ownership of so distinctive a car was a never-ending pleasure, for he had the satisfaction—always—of knowing he drove the finest.

When it came time to trade his previously owned Cadillac for a later model, he found its value had held remarkably high . . . and returned a substantial part of his original investment.

So what could be more natural—or wise—than to make the eventual move to a new Cadillac?

New or used, there is no finer motoring investment than a Cadillac. And new or used, your authorized dealer has one to fit any budget. There's never been a better time to invest in the finest of them all.
