

HILLSIDE BLAZE . . . Residents of South Torrance thought Palos Verdes Estates had a fire Monday morning when they saw smoke rising into the sky on the hillside east of Hawthorne Avenue and at the end of Lucera Circle. The smoke was from a controlled burn. Firemen of Palos Verdes Estates were clearing brush and dry grass away from nearby homes. (Press-Herald Photo)

'Y' Plans Drive for Phase II

Members of the Torrance YMCA board of managers voted this week to extend the successful building campaign to seek an added $188,000 during the next year in order to create the second unit of the new YMCA youth facility. According to Dr. Wing Mar, board chairman, many thousands of local families and firms did not have a chance to share in the victorious effort to create the first program headquarters unit. Some 3,000 donors pledged $675,000 to assure construction of one of the most beautiful and effective youth buildings in the nation. ROD SWARTZ was named chairman of this "follow-up" drive to build a full-size gymnasium, locker rooms, showers, and other athletic facilities. Swartz reported that more than 100 citizens have volunteered to work quietly toward this added youth facility for Torrance and Lomita. Those interested in helping are invited to a planning meeting at the YMCA on Wednesday, July 22, at 7:30 p.m. Progress on the first unit since the campaign concluded has been rapid for a project of this size. STORM DRAINS are installed; the loan on the property has been reduced to $15,000; the preliminary plans by architect Roy Donley have been approved by the YMCA Board; and, working drawings are now being prepared. The Y Building Committee is steering the imaginative plans through a gamut of some 17 official groups who must approve the plans in each phase, according to Manager Joe Wilcox.
