YOUR PROBLEMS

by Ann Landers

'I Know Your Type . . .'

Dear Ann Landers: After spending several hundred dollars to come to this world-famous medical center the doctor had the nerve to tell me there is nothing wrong with me.

The final consultation took one hour. The doctor reviewed the X-rays, and previous history going back 10 years. He ended the consultation by telling me I am in good physical condition and that I should go home and find something to keep me busy.

What he was saying was I am healthy as a horse but I am nuts—that I imagine the headaches, backaches and stomach pains.

When doctors can't get to the root of the trouble why do they always tell the patient his troubles are imaginary?

I must close this letter now as I feel a dizzy spell coming on and I'm due for another eye-piercing headache—ILL, BUT UNDIAGNOSED

Dear Ill: I know your type. You will now go from doctor to doctor, shopping around until somebody sells you an operation. But that won't be the end of it. You will then complain about your adhesions.

What you don't understand is that aches and pains from imaginary illness are real. The pain is there, but it is caused by anxiety, tension, and unresolved problems. Only when you get your emotional machinery in good running condition will you feel better.

I'm sure your doctor tried to tell you this but some people reject any diagnosis that suggests they have an emotional problem.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband went into a new business. He is having serious financial difficulty and the bills are mounting. Bob is bright and hard-working and I feel confident that if he stays with this business he will eventually do well.

The question is, should I go to work to help him out? I have a profession and could make excellent money. We have two children and my mother lives with us. She could take care of the house and watch the children. Mother is urging me to stay home and let Bob work things out somehow. Her battle cry is, "Once he gets used to your paycheck he'll never stand on his own."

Please tell me what to do. I feel dreadful knowing I could help my husband over this hurdle—and I'm not doing it. — GUILTY CONSCIENCE
