

Sure Cure for Lousy Lovers

A word overused in this country to describe most anything you dislike is "lousy." I disapprove of its usage, but in order to discuss a husband problem many of you American wives have, I will borrow it this one time only.

Is it true, then, as you maintain, that "American husbands are lousy lovers?" Or, are American husbands merely lousy lovers with American wives?

Mme. B. has what seems to be a universal complaint: "My husband is affectionate, kind and considerate in every room of the house but the bedroom," she says.

"His arrival home in the evening only means that you get the same sort of affectionate absent-minded pat on the back that the family dog does. After dinner comes television viewing and after that a sleep so sound he could be dead for all the good he is."

You're not alone, my dear. You have plenty of company, and all of you are using the wrong techniques.

Don't blame him. Blame his way of life and your wasteful contributions to it. The American male is always in a rush, rush, rush. It's work, clubs, sports and children.

When he finally gets to bed, it's to sleep from sheer exhaustion. But, take heart, there is something you can do. Once again I come to your rescue. To be loved requires preparation. If there are icicles hanging in your bedroom, you're the coldness forming them, not him.

You must prepare for romance at the stroke of 3:30 every afternoon. Stop whatever you are doing (having, of course, put the bedroom and living room into A-1 shape) and concentrate on getting yourself into a romantic mood.

Now, don't start whining to me that you have children. So do other women. Out of the way, with them! A warm tub with a tantalizing bath oil is a must. If not a tub, a shower, then rub body oil on just before you towel dry.

Put on a clean dress and brush, brush your hair. Some of you have so much spray on your hair he hates to think of even being near you, let alone making advances.

The unwinding hour is his from the moment he enters the house. You mix him a cocktail and give him a neck, foot or head rub. If you can manage it, and you should if you want results, dine a deux. Tell him, "I want to be alone with you." This flatters any husband.

One half hour before his usual bedtime you draw his bath, adding his favorite after-shave lotion or cologne or even a bath oil.

While he relaxes, prepare yourself for bed with the same flair, imagination and delight you used on your honeymoon. Attitude and expectation is everything. You should have a few minutes left to scrub his back, or to help him dry off.

If he isn't in a romantic mood by this time, check with your dentist. You could have bad breath.

to be added to well drilling districts is surrounded by fencing and presents no hazard to passers-by and children. The area is located west of Crenshaw Boulevard and south of 190th Street on the refinery property.

A public hearing on the formation of Street Lighting District 9, which will combine several assessment areas into one district is also on the agenda. The hearing is slated for 8 p.m., following opening ceremonies when the council convenes.

During the opening ceremonies, Lee Schlens, superintendent of the city's building department, will receive a permanent plaque commending him for his service to the city.

Three Selected By Girl Scouts

Three senior Girl Scouts from the South Bay Girl Scout Council have been chosen to attend three All-State Encampments to be sponsored by Girl Scouts of USA this summer.

Susan Rolfe, Hermosa Beach, will attend Camp Woodhaven in Redwood City. Judy Krienke, Manhattan Beach, will attend Camp Toca in Twin Lakes, Mich. Nancy Gerhardt, Manhattan Beach, will attend Camp Sky-Wa-Mo in Elizabethton, Tenn.

Heart Association Sets Dates for Two Symposia

Dates for two annual professional symposia have been set by the Los Angeles County Heart Association.

The Fall Symposium on Heart Disease will be on Wednesday, Sept. 30, and Thursday, Oct. 1, at the Statler Hilton Hotel, Morton H. Maxwell, M. D., is chairman.

The Ninth Annual Midwinter Symposium is set for Wednesday, Jan. 20, 1965, at the Statler Hilton Hotel. Deadline for abstracts of papers to be considered for possible presentation is Oct. 3, according to Oscar Magidson, M. D., chairman.

Five area high school students attended California's first Communications Arts and Science Summer Institute recently held at the University of Redlands.

Attending from Torrance were Karen and Sharon Hines, 23014 Huber Ave., and Roger E. Webb, 1422 W. 227th St. Nancy N. Norris, Palos Verdes, and Bob Platt, Rolling Hills Estates, also attended.

Selected on the basis of their academic records, the students attended programs and classes which stressed the theories, science, art and techniques of communication—an analysis of the ways through which man communicates.

Teacher Gets Study Grant

Warren E. Hockenbary of 1153 Levinson St., has been awarded an Allstate Foundation scholarship for advanced studies in driver education at California State College at Los Angeles. Hockenbary, who is a teacher at the Samuel Gompers Junior High School in Los Angeles, is one of 35 teachers to receive a scholarship from an Allstate grant presented to the college this past month.

The California State College grant is one of 42 awarded this year to colleges and universities in 28 different states to help these schools meet the growing demand for well-qualified high school driver education teachers, according to Judson B. Branch, president of the Allstate Foundation. The grant will support summer session programs in these schools.
